Johnson Inks New Tax Bill

To Ask Congress to Make Social Security Change

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has signed a bill to bring the government about $6 billion in additional revenue over the next 15 months. He used the signing ceremony to announce he plans to ask Congress next year to make "Social Security benefits more adequate."

Johnson gave no details but said he has asked Welfare Secretary John W. Gardner to make a study of possible improvements in Social Security. The bill the President signed Tuesday night — within three hours after Congress gave it final approval — grants Social Security coverage to about 300,000 persons over 72.

The signing ceremony capped a busy day for the President and Congress which saw the advancement of four money measures to bolster the nation's Viet Nam war effort.

The first effect of the tax bill is to increase from 6 per cent to 7 per cent starting today the excise tax on car sales. The measure also reinstates as of April 1 the 10 per cent tax on phone calls — the levy is now 3 per cent—and provides speed-ups in collection of corporate and personal income taxes. The latter takes effect May 1.

The bill is expected to provide some $1.2 billion in extra money by June 30 and $4.8 billion during fiscal 1967 starting July 1 to help finance the Viet Nam war.

Johnson again said he could make no prediction now whether additional tax rises will be necessary later this year but added "you may be assured that this administration stands ready to act when action is needed — if it is needed. I am certain that the Congress stands ready to respond in the same manner."

There were these other developments:

— The House passed and sent to the Senate an appropriations bill providing $13,135,719,000 in emergency defense funds, military assistance and foreign economic aid. The House vote was 389 to 3, and Senate approval seemed assured, possibly today.

— The Senate okayed by voice vote and forwarded to the House an authorization measure providing $415 million in extra economic aid, most of it for South Viet Nam, with smaller sums for the Dominican Republic, Laos, Thailand and the President's contingency fund. The actual funds to be spent under this authorization are contained in the $13-billion-plus appropriations measure.

Re-Mapping Accord In All But 2 Areas

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — House Redistricting Commission officers said Tuesday the members are in substantial agreement on district lines in all the state but St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Chairman G. Andy Runge, Mexico Republican, and Vice Chairman Bob Dorsey, Brookfield Democrat, said they were pleased with the progress of the committee and believed the basic work could be completed by this weekend.

The commission feels it must write the resolution detail on the district lines—a definitive, time-consuming chore— before the March 23 deadline.

At Informational Meet

JuCo Accredited, Audience Told

Citizens from Pettis and Benton counties attended a meeting Tuesday night at the Pettis County Court House where they heard the Junior College proposal discussed by state education officials.

Appearing on a panel were Delmar Cobble, deputy commissioner of education; Fred Davis, director of junior colleges; and Tom Mock, assistant director of guidance services. After a brief summary of the relative new Junior College program in the State of Missouri by Davis, questions were asked by the audience.

In connection with the proposed Pettis - Benton counties Junior College which will be voted on April 5 in both counties, one of the first inquiries made of the panel concerned the accreditation of such a college. It was feared that college credits in the early stages of a Junior College would not be transferrable to other higher education institutions.

Both Davis and Cobble pointed out that by the very nature of the State Department of Education approving the original petitions and studying local situations for the sanction of bringing the proposal before the two counties' citizens, the accreditation was implied. He revealed that there was no question that the local Junior College would be accredited.

In regard to a board of trustees being able to place a tax levy in order to get such a college program formulated, Davis pointed out the exact levy up to 40 cents on $100 assessed valuation could not be determined by the trustees until studies and surveys were made. This would be done after such a study is made by the board and an administrative head selected. According to Cobble, the taxpayers in these two counties are paying

Crackdown On Stops At Crossings

Move Results From Study Of Accidents At Railroad Tracks

Sedalia Police Chief William E. Miller said Tuesday officers of the department have been instructed to crack down on violators of ordinances which instruct drivers to stop at appropriately marked railroad crossings.

The move resulted from a study provided Miller by the Missouri Public Service Commission in Jefferson City which gave a statistical breakdown on accidents at railroad crossings, the numbers of persons killed and injured in these accidents, and so on.

John H. Lucas, assistant railroad safety supervisor for the commission, provided the study.

The report, dating back to 1953, says since that year 11 persons have lost their lives in accidents involving motor vehicles and trains in Sedalia. Included are Missouri Pacific and MK&T (Katy) crossings in the city.

Besides the 11 killed, the report says, 26 persons have been injured during the same span of time. The worst occurrance of fatalities was recorded Feb. 17, 1954, at the Quincy Ave. crossing, where six persons lost their lives in the same mishap.

Over the almost 13-year span, the worst crossing site, in number of accidents, is the Engi-

Officials Inquire About Absence Of Public Administrator

MARSHALL, Mo. (AP)—Two Saline County officials said Tuesday they are making preliminary inquiries into the unexplained absence of the county's young public administrator, Tom Dyer.

Prosecutor Allen Parish and Magistrate Judge Perry G. Storts said Dyer has been away from his office since Feb. 24 and that efforts to learn his whereabouts have proved fruitless.

The prosecutor emphasized that no complaints have been filed about Dyer's conduct of his office.

Storts said that during the administrator's absence he made inquiries into several estates but found "nothing conclusive to report."

Dyer, who is unmarried, was elected in November, 1964. He was 21 then and was believed to be the youngest elected officeholder in Missouri's history.

The public administrator generally acts as an administrator in interstate estates or when legal principals to the estate are in some way unable to act in their own behalf.

Parish and other officials said Dyer left no word that he planned a vacation or would be away. The officials explained that his job did not require him to be in the administrator's office every day.

Great Space Hunt Is On

Predicts US Moon Race Win

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson predicted publicly for the first time today that the United States will beat Russia to the landing of a man on the moon.

The President made the prediction after watching the launching of Gemini 8, the forerunner of a space capsule intended to put an American on the moon.

"We are going to be the first to land a man on the moon and we will land him in the 1960s," the President said.

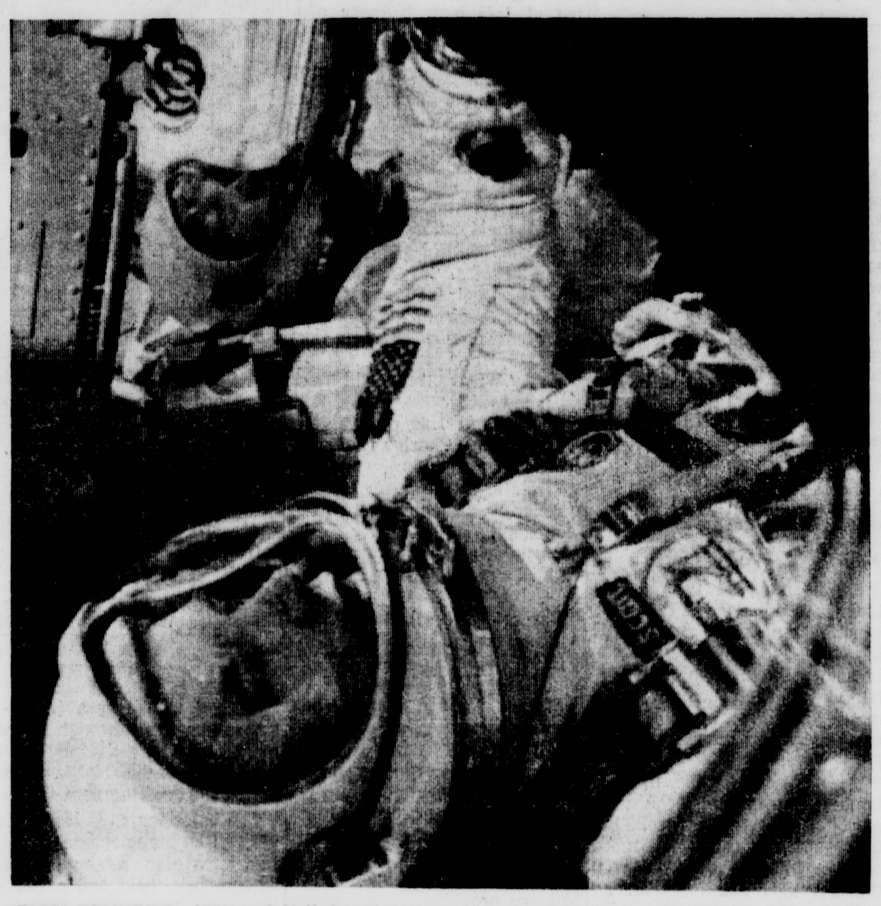
He spoke at a ceremony at which he accepted an award from the National Space Club for having "provided the leadership for United States pre-eminince in space."

Dr. Edward C. Welsh, executive secretary of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, told reporters he thinks there is better than a 50-50 chance the United States will put a man on the moon ahead of the Soviet Union. He said Johnson never before had predicted this.

The President many times has said the goal is to land a man on the moon by 1970.

The award that Johnson received today was the Robert H. Goddard Trophy, named for the American space pioneer. Goddard's widow, who helped her husband in his path-breaking efforts, was present for the ceremony.

It was Goddard, Johnson recalled, who exactly 40 years ago launched the world's first liquid-fueled rocket from a farm in Auburn, Mass.



CAPE KENNEDY—Astronaut Neil Armstrong (top) and David Scott are seen through the open hatch of their Gemini-8 spacecraft after insertion today in preparation for action-packed three-day mission. (UPI)

All Well 1st Hours Of Flight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The Gemini 8 astronauts soared into orbit today on man's most difficult space venture and began stalking an Agena satellite across the sky in the first attempt to link up two orbiting vehicles.

Neil Armstrong and David Scott planned to close in on the Agena late today after a 105,000-mile chase and complete the historic docking about 6 p.m., EST, high above South America.

But the excitement of the action-packed flight won't end there. Three additional hookups are planned and Thursday Scott is to drift out into the silent emptiness of space for a record space walk of nearly 2½ hours.

By the time the astronauts return to earth Saturday, if all goes as planned, they will have rehearsed many of the vital techniques that must be perfected before men venture to the moon.

The great space hunt started at 11:41 a.m. EST with the thundering blastoff of a Titan 2 rocket from Cape Kennedy. The 109-foot-tall projectile vaulted upward on a blazing tail of hot gases and drilled Gemini 8 into orbit more than 100 miles above the earth.

Command pilot Armstrong separated the spacecraft from the Titan 2 and fired jet thrusters to provide the final orbital speed of more than 17,500 miles an hour.

The firing climaxed a spectacular launching doubleheader that started at 10 a.m. when an Atlas burst away from another launch pad to propel the Agena target satellite into orbit 185 miles high—precisely the path desired.

Two Dead, 26 Hurt In Los Angeles Riot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Six hundred Negroes rampaged for six hours late Tuesday, leaving at least two dead and 26 injured in a South Los Angeles area still showing scars of last August's bloody riot.

A massive force of several hundred police swiftly sealed off a 36- square-block section in the predominantly Negro Watts district, then moved in to clear the streets of mobs firing guns, hurling bottles, looting stores and upsetting cars.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown flew to Los Angeles, decided against calling out the alerted National Guard and announced: "Everything is well under control for the time being."

At the height of the outbreak a white truck driver, Lawrence Gomez, 30, father of five, was shot to death as he pounded on doors seeking refuge from a Negro mob.

Shortly afterward a Negro, Joe Lee Crawford, 33, died as he walked out of a store into crossfire between police and rioters.

There were unconfirmed reports of a third death.

Police said 27 persons were arrested.

Like last August, when the six-day toll was 34 dead and $40 million in damage from looting and fire, the violence was triggered by a minor incident.

Police said a Negro man threw a rock at a car driven by a white man. The white man, slightly injured, stopped and called police.

It was about 3:20 p.m. and nearby Jordan High School was just letting out for the day. Negro students gathered round the group and began accusing the officers of brutality in arresting the rock hurler.

Bricks and bottles flew from the growing mob.

Light Plane Strikes Building At Slater

SLATER, Mo. (AP) — Four persons were treated for bruises and lacerations Tuesday after their light plane spun out of control and struck the Slater airport building.

Injured were Fritz Daugherty, the pilot; his wife, Frances; and Mr. and Mrs. Carter Harrison, all of Columbia, Mo.

The left wing dipped and struck the building. The wing fell off and the motor dropped out as the plane twisted to a stop.

The accident occurred before takeoff.

Yanks Battle 600 Cong For Four Hours

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American paratroopers battled 600 guerrillas for four hours today on the ninth day of Operation Silver City, a drive by thousands of U.S. and Australian soldiers into the Communist-held D Zone north of Saigon.

Two battalions of Viet Cong struck a battalion of the 173rd Airborne Brigade from all directions this morning in the first significant Red reaction to the Allied sweep. The Americans called for air and artillery support and after the fighting tapered off reported 142 Viet Cong killed and 3 captured, including an officer.

U.S. losses were described as light.

The Communists knocked out three U.S. helicopters. Their crews were rescued.

Assassination Plan Revealed In Jakarta

SINGAPORE (AP) — Sources in Singapore said today an order from President Sukarno for the assassination of four anti-Communist generals has come to light in Jakarta.

The sources said Lt. Gen. Suharto's new military regime has also discovered that Sukarno is in constant touch with Peking by radio from his palace at Bogor, 40 miles from Jakarta.

The sources said they did not know which generals were named in the assassination order but that they understood they were members of Suharto's regime.

They said the order apparently was drawn up before Sukarno handed over his powers to the military last Saturday. He remains as a figurehead president.

The sources said discovery of the document could lead to "violent action" against Sukarno.

"The whole situation may now be changed," they said.

Space Dogs Return

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet space dogs Blackie and Breezy landed safely today after a record three weeks in space and an unprecedented orbit through high radiation belts, Tass reported.

The official Soviet news agency said "the animals are in good condition after landing." They spent 22 days in space.

Sees Need For Britain In Market

LONDON (AP) — France said today it now believes it is desirable for Britain to enter the European Common Market, a move it vetoed more than two years ago.

But Britain replied that France's planned military withdrawal from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's integrated command was a new factor that would make it difficult for British participation in the 6-nation trading bloc.

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart announced the new French position to newsmen after presiding over a two-day meeting of Western European Union ministers. They ranged over the problems of allied unity, the North Atlantic Alliance and economic cooperation in West Europe.

Stewart said the French statement now makes clear that all six members of the Common Market are agreed on the desirability of British entry.

Stewart, speaking as chairman of the meeting, said all European Union governments agreed hat there must be a phase of preliminary discussion between Britain and the Common Market members before any negotiations on British entry can begin. Members are France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

At the same time, opposition to De Gaulle's plans mounted on all sides of the NATO Alliance.

Davey Jones Democratic Chairman

Davey Jones, well-known Sedalia groceryman, was elected Democratic city chairman at a meeting of the city Democratic committee at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Pettis County Court House. He was elected by acclamation.

Jones resides at 709 East 13th with his wife, Betty, and son, Gary. He is active in youth work in the city and is an advisor for Sedalia Chapter 29, Order of DeMolay.

He is a member of the VFW, the American Legion, Masonic Lodge, the East Sedalia Baptist Church, where he is president of the Kingdom Builders Sunday School class.

Elected secretary - treasurer was Mrs. Lucy Davis, 903 Ruth Ann. She is superintendent of concessions for the Missouri State Fair.

Frank Meyer, outgoing city chairman, presided over the meeting prior to the election.

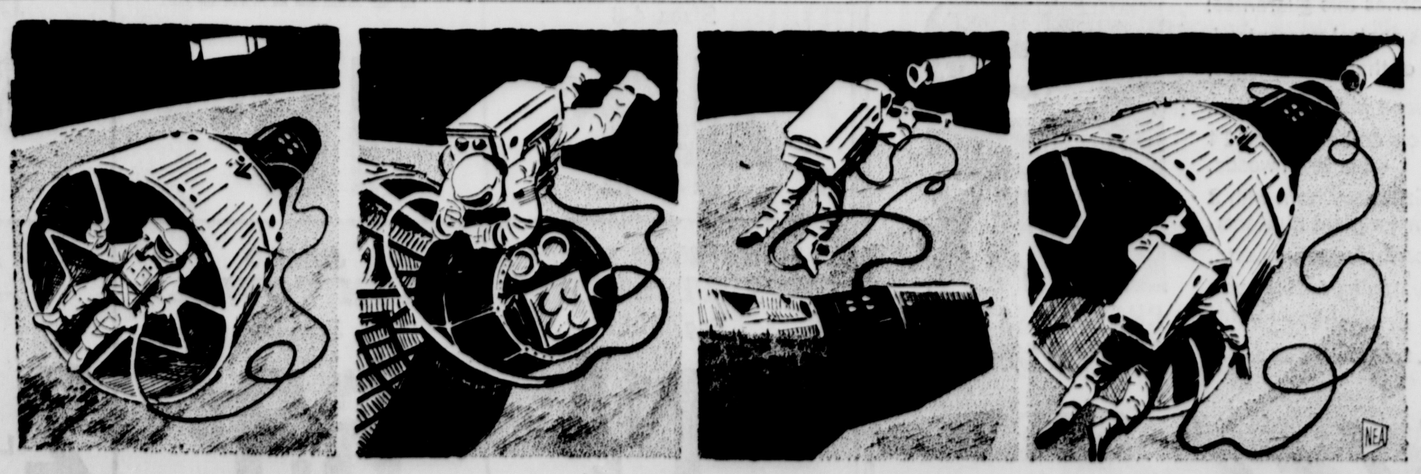
All city Democratic candidates running in the April 5 election were introduced and made brief remarks. Candidates in the election are J. A. "Salty" Schumaker, mayor; Lawrence Englund, police judge; John C. McCloskey, city attorney; Opal Hugelman, city collector; John R. Blue, city assessor; Mrs. Perry L. Strole, city treasurer; and the following councilman: James Askren, first ward; Walter Jessee, second ward; R. S. "Bob" Wells, third ward; and Floyd Priddy, fourth ward.

John Herring, who was one of three candidates for mayor in the primary election, spoke on unity and harmony in the party.

Summers Withdraws

Hubert W. Summers, Route 1, Smithton, last man to file for one of three out-city trustee seats on the proposed Junior College here, Tuesday announced his withdrawal as a candidate for that office.

Summer's resignation from the race brings the number of candidates down to 20, 15 from Sedalia and five from the surrounding area.



SCOTT'S SCHEDULE—Astronaut David Scott's Gemini-8 space walk, scheduled to start 20 hours and 25 minutes after launching, not only will be the longest yet but will involve some tricky maneuvering. After stepping into space with a 25-foot umbilical tether and wearing his life support chest pack, Scott will pull himself along handrails on the capsule to the back of the adapter section. Letting out his tether to 75 feet, he'll take on his back pack and maneuvering gunn and move to the front of the capsule to perform checkout maneuvers. Attaching the 75-foot tether to the nose, Scott will use the maneuvering gun to cross open space from the capsule to the rendezvous target vehicle and back again. He'll station himself at the back of the adapter while command pilot Neil Armstrong performs docking maneuvers, fitting the nose of Gemini-8 into a special cone-shaped opening on the end of the Agena for history's first link-up of two orbiting vehicles. Scott will discard back pack and gun before re-entering Gemini-8.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Last night my husband and I went to visit friends who just moved into a new high-rise. When I noticed a telescope in the bedroom, I said, "I didn't know you were interested in astronomy." The woman replied, "We aren't. We are interested in PEOPLE, and boy do we see plenty through this thing!"

I said, "You don't mean you actually look in peoples' windows?" She answered, "Where have you been? It's THE most popular urban pastime. Telescopes are selling like hot cakes. Besides, it isn't window peeping exactly. Psychiatrists say people who don't WANT to be seen pull down their shades. So you see, they get their kicks out of it, too."

I was stunned and so was my husband. Are they sick or are we square? Your opinion will be appreciated. — UNSOPHISTICATED URBANITES

Dear Urbanites: People who get their jollies from looking into windows are pretty darned sick. If this is our city dwellers' most popular pastime, we are in real trouble.

Dear Ann Landers: I am planning to marry a widower of 32. He is the father of four children under six years of age. I am a registered nurse, age 30. My intended is a school teacher who does TV repair work on the side to supplement his modest income. My mother is disappointed. She said "After having been exposed to so many high income professional men, why did you settle for HIM?"

My father says the man is latching on to me because he needs a housekeeper, cook, baby tender — and what more could a widower with four motherless kids ask for than an R. N.?

I feel that at 30 I'd better not pass up this opportunity because there may not be many others.

My decision to marry this man has alienated me from my entire family. Am I taking a bigger bite than I can swallow? —R. N. WITH A HIGH I.Q.

Dear R. N.: Nowhere in your letter do you mention your fondness for the man or your interest in his children.

The only thing that comes through loud and clear is that you are settling for this man because you fear it may be your last chance to marry. Unless you can generate more enthusiasm than your letter reflects, I say forget it.

Confidential To Sore Back, Aching Feet, Tight Husband: Since he seems to spend so much time in church and puts so much faith in the preacher, quote Billy Sunday. He said, "It is better to buy a wife a new washing machine than to put silver handles on her casket."

Confidential To Sick And Tired Of The Daily Grind: Your litany of petty complaints made ME sick and tired, Lady. Just think how happy you'd be if you lost everything you NOW have and then suddenly got it back.

Confidential To Tongue Tied: So untie your tongue and tell her. But DON'T say "Your jewelry has left a mark on your neck. I'm sure when you see it you'll want to wash it off."

Fact

The hoatzin bird, which still survives extinction, can climb trees and swim in water, but is weak in flight. It is about the size of a small pheasant and inhabits the wooded river banks of the Atlantic drainage area in northern South America. For its voice, it emits only a few monotonous notes and harsh, hissing sounds.

'The Do's and Don'ts'

Medicare Suggestions For Those Receiving Card

Ralph T. Sprgue, social security district manager in Sedalia, today offered some suggested do's and don'ts for people 65 and over who are receiving their red, white and blue health insurance eligibility cards in the mail. He also reminded older people who have not yet enrolled in the voluntary medical insurance part of medicare that the March 31 deadline for enrollment is approaching. Older people will use these cards, beginning next July, when they enter a hospital — and if they have signed up for the voluntary medical insurance plan, when they go to their doctor.

The voluntary medical insurance part of medicare, Sprague said, will cover much of the cost of doctor bills for surgery and for home, office and hospital visits and also many other health services.

Persons 65 and over get hospital protection under the medicare program, whether or not they have ever worked under social secruity, Sprague pointed out. They can supplement this basic hospital insurance with the voluntary medical insurance for $3 a month, one-half the cost. The other half will be paid out of Federal revenues.

Over 9,000 older people in the Sedalia area had signed up for the voluntary medical insurance coverage as of March 11, Sprague noted, but a few hundred more will need to take action between now and March 31, in order to get the protection the plan provides. Those who delay past that time will have to wait two years for another chance to enroll.

Health insurance eligibility cards are being mailed first to the people who are signed up for both hospital insurance and the voluntary medical insurance, Sprague said. Cards will not be mailed to those who are signed up for only the hospital insurance until after March 31.

Sprague had these pointers for elderly people who have received or may soon be receiving their health insurance eligibility cards:

1. Don't be concerned if a neighbor gets his card and your card hasn't yet arrived. Mailings started Feb. 1, but will be continuing for many weeks. Also, there will be instances where a husband and wife, both 65 or over, will receive their cards on different days. In general, if you sent back the enrollment card you received in the mail for the voluntary medical insurance before Jan. 15, you should have your health insurance card by now. If it has not come, or if it doesn't show your eligibility for both medical insurance as well as hospital insurance, get in touch with your nearest social security office right away. If you sent back your enrollment card on Jan. 15 or later, or if you signed up for the medical insurance plan at your social security district office, your card will arrive after March 15th.

2. Don't change the writing on the face of the card. If your name is shown incorrectly or any other detail is wrong, ask your social security office to get you a corrected card. In this way, you will also correct any mistake in your social security record.

3. Keep the card in a safe place at home, or if you are frequently away from home, carry it with you in your billfold or purse. Carry the card with you when you go on vacation or travel on business. Starting July 1, it will be good anywhere in the United States.

4. Do keep any hospital or health insurance you may have now, until July 1 when the two new programs go into effect. By July 1, your present plan will have been in touch with you. Most Blue Cross and Blue Shield plans and private insurance companies will not duplicate medicare coverage for policyholders or subscribers 65 or over, but may offer plans that will supplement benefits provided under medicare.

5. If you lose your card, notify your social security office and a duplicate card will be issued to you. Your health insurance card and the benefits it represents are not transferable. Intentional misuse of the card by a person other than the one to whom it was issued is unlawful and will make the offender liable to a penalty.

6. Get in touch with the people in your social security office if you have any questions about your rights under medicare. The well-intentioned but possibly incorrect information passed on by friends and acquaintances might result in a loss of benefits.

7. If you have been putting off your decision on signing up for the voluntary medical insurance, remember, time is running out. The enrollment period for persons 65 or over before Jan. 1, 1966, ends March 31. Those who fail to sign up by then will have to wait two years for another chance to enroll. Over 16 million older people were sent enrollment cards in the mail, along with a postage-free envelope. Anyone who has lost or misplaced his card can get another one from his nearest social security office. Anyone who has not received an enrollment card in the mail, can sign up for the medical insurance at the nearest social security district office.

The social security district office in Sedalia will be open evenings to 9 p. m. on March 28, 29, 30 and 31, and also is open on Saturdays from 9 to 12 for the convenience of working people 65 and over, and elderly people who cannot get out by themselves but can make the trip to the social security office if accompanied by a relative or friend.

Stern Look At Credit Explosion

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans, "wallowing in a sixth unbroken year of prosperity," are in the middle of a credit explosion — which may or may not be a good thing.

A lot of us are in debt to the tune of $315 billion, in mortgages on 90 per cent of our homes, 60 per cent of our automobiles, 50 per cent of our department store purchases and a lot of other things besides.

"CBS Reports" Tuesday night took a stern look at our credit-card, cashless society, and the competition by banks and loan companies to attract borrowers. Most of all, it seemed concerned about the public's ignorance and lack of concern about the high interest rates it was paying.

Economists on the program were split in their opinions. One thought the extension of credit was a fine thing since it allowed young couples to acquire things that another generation had to wait for until middle age when they had saved their money. Others suggested that if the supply of credit were cut off, production would be cut because goods could not move, with resulting unemployment and a decrease in the Gross National Product.

Other economists and Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., seemed most worried that few borrowers knew how much they were really paying in interest. "If you are charged 1½ per cent a month, you are paying 18 per cent a year," explained the narrator, Alexander Kendrick.

Kendrick interviewed three families who had become "overextended," which means deep in debt. One woman whose husband makes $6,000 a year told of borrowing several hundred dollars and of going on a shopping spree and charging $1,800 worth of toys and gifts — on impulse.

Julius Caesar imported the first giraffe to Europe in 46 B.C. and the animal was exhibited in Rome.

High-Level Company On Tax Paying

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you owe Uncle Sam some money on last year's income tax, take heart. You've got some high-level company.

Sheldon S. Cohen, who as commissioner of internal revenue is the federal government's top tax collector, disclosed today that he owes an additional $71.05 but plans to pay up this week.

April 15 is the deadline for filing income tax returns for 1965. If you owe money, it must be paid by that time. For Cohen, the $71.05 is the amount that his withholding fell short of his tax for the year.

Cohen said in an interview that he prepared his own tax return — "I do my own, I always have" — claimed six exemptions — he and his wife have four children — and listed his occupation as government employe.

That, he said, is so one of his employes in the Internal Revenue Service can't tell at a glance that it's the commissioner's return and won't shy away from withdrawing it for a possible audit if one appears necessary.

Cohen's return has been audited the last two years and found in good order, he said.

While many Americans find income tax time a yearly struggle, Cohen said it need not be. The greatest problem, he noted, is in accumulating the needed information.

"Most people are disorganized," he said. "They don't think of the information they'll need until they're ready to fill out the tax form. But once the information is available the rest is routine."

What does Cohen do?

He said, for example, that he keeps a cigar box in the cupboard into which he and his wife drop drug store and similar receipts. He also pays all doctor bills b ycheck and consequently has a handy record in canceled checks.

Another handy device, Cohen added, is to keep a record of any dividend and interest income throughout the year.

When income tax time rolled around, the commissioner said, he merely double-checked his records with his W2 form — the one which listed his government salary at $28,500 yearly — and the statements he received from banks and corporations in which he holds stock.

"It's a bit late for New Year's resolutions," Cohen said, "but people should resolve to have all the information available for income tax time by keeping records."

Suspends Jailers Following Escape

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—St. Clair County Sheriff Maurice Joseph suspended for 30 days Tuesday two jailers on duty when three men escaped Sunday.

The deputies are Calvin Hammond of East St. Louis and Chester Prosise of nearby Washington Park.

The escapees are C. W. Davis, 18, of East St. Louis, held on rape, battery and aggravated assault charges; Charley Ray Kellick, 23, of East St. Louis, held on a murder charge, and Herbert Jones, 20, of Washington Park, held on a burglary charge. They still are at large.

The escape, discovered at roll call Monday morning, was the fourth in seven months from the 81-year-old county jail.

Dies of Stab Wound

ST. LOUIS (AP)—An eleven-year-old girl died Tuesday of a stab wound suffered in the yard of her home in suburban Kirkwood. She was Marilyn McDonnell.

A playmate, a 14-year-old boy, was taken into custody and later transferred to the St. Louis County juvenile home.

Police said the children played together often.

Steal Trailer Load

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A Vandalia, Mo., man drove into town Tuesday night hauling about $500 in appliances in a trailer and lost it all when he parked for several minutes.

Orve Spires reported he returned to find the trailer unhitched and gone with a television set, a radio, bed and whirlpool bath.

Ready for Potlatch

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Natives from all over the Alaska interior are gathering here this week for the fourth annual native potlatch.

They're bringing with them bear meat, beaver, salmon, moose and muktuk — that's whale skin covering a generous slab of fat—and all the other delicacies that make a potlatch worthwhile.

The climax of potlatch comes this weekend with the running of the North American sled dog races.

Worker Electrocuted

ST. LOUIS (AP) — David Dzierwa, 19, of suburban Dellwood was electrocuted Tuesday while installing a telephone line in south St. Louis County.

Dzierwa, an employe of PageCom, a sub-contractor of International Telphone and Telegraph Co., apparently contacted a 13,000-volt electric wire with a copper wire he was holding.

The National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C., is the world's largest completely air-conditioned art museum.

Benefit Style Show Held By Local Beta Tau Chapter

Models wearing the newest of spring fashions walked through an arbor of red roses Monday night, March 14, down the long stage in the annual Beta Tau Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Style Show given for the benefit of the Children's Therapy Center, at Smith-Cotton School Cafeteria.

The background for the arbor were three tall square pillars of graduated sizes each topped with flower boxes of red geraniums and ferns and at the side two chairs and a table of white wrought iron on which was a flower arrangement of red geraniums. Several flower boxes of red geraniums edged the platform on which the models came up the steps on one side and after modeling went down the steps on the other side. The stage setting was by Kim Originals.

Organ music preceding and during the style show was by Mrs. C. C. DeLozier.

Mrs. Bettie Yates as narrator, described the fashions as each model approached and walked the length of the stage.

The first little model was Darlynn McBride, and to Darlynn, in a little navy blue dress trimmed in white, the success of the show was most important, for she is one of the youngsters at the Children's Therapy Center. Her hair curled, her smile bright as always, she walked across the back of the stage from the steps on one side to the steps on the other in her braces, and those who have seen Darlynn open the Beta Tau Fashion Show for several years noticed the improvement she had made.

Other models from Flowers, from where Darlynn was a model, were Miss Danna Routszong, Mrs. W. D. Wilson, Mrs. Robert Mason, Miss Marion Phipps, and Mrs. John Cook.

From Chapman's models were: Nancy Anderson, Dot Hieronymus, Sharon Green, Mildred Curry and Priscilla Boone.

Modeling for Penney's were: Cathy Hackman, Diann Hackman, Mrs. Jack Watts and Debbie and Mrs. Verrel Martin.

Kelly Purcell and Tracy Purcell modeled for Maxines.

Burton's models were: Sara Greer, Mrs. J. C. Morgan, Mrs. Dan Doty Jr., Sharon Waterfield and Mrs. Paul Joquel.

From Dora's were: Sheryl Wahrenbrock, Julie Garrett, Sherry Murray, Janice Marshall and Pattie Paul.

J. D. Foster and Mike Purcell modeled for Mullin's Men's and Boys' Wear.

Lockett's models were Janet Walker, Linda Schroeder, Toni and Terri Wilson and Janet Shelby.

Judy Bopp, Judy Dean, Sharon Gregory and Linda Wise modeled for Patterson's.

From Connor-Wagoner were Sherry Fingland, Diane DeWitt, Julie Whitaker, Jeannie Madden and Mrs. Paul Jackson.

Mrs. John Pelham, Mrs. Jane Appleton, Mrs. Wilma Davis, Debbie Pelham and Kip Lange were models from the Mall Dress Shop.

David Curry was from the Colonial Shop and Donald Brownfield and William Anderson from Russell Brothers Clothing.

The fashions from three year old Debbie Watts who did her part perfectly, through all ages girls and boys, teenagers and grownups, the fashions were fresh and different.

Suits of all colors and styles, long jackets and shorter ones, cutaway styles with one button, some piped with contrasting colors, were of all materials, many that needed little care, fabrics that would go all day in a car and look as unrumpled as if it had been newly laundered. The double knit was modeled by several.

There were navy blue, black, white, and light beige, there were pastel shades and deeper shades, sometimes the deeper shades and the lighter shades delightfully combined. From one attractive dress a loose panel fluttered from the shoulder.

Dresses this year are designed to flatter the figure with the shimmers, which are the shifts with a fit. There were the easy to wear shifts, too, and the twins, Toni and Terri Wilson, wore match and mix outfits and mixed them, for Toni was carrying the jacket to Terri's outfit and Terri carried the jacket to Toni's.

Coats were particularly attractive, some flared in the back and some had belts, one an interesting curved belt.

Hats, worn on the back of the head, were all sizes and shapes, some of shiny straw with little trimming and other completely covered with flowers. The hats gave a definite fashion air to the suits, coats and dresses. As did the shoes with cut designs, and in as many shades as the hats.

One of the very pretty dresses was of black lace, dressy enough to go to parties, simple enough to be worn on the street.

And what about the men. Here, too, are clothes that do not wrinkle, and jackets in wine, shades of wine, that is, seemed particularly good. The longer lapel for the two button suit was stressed.

Usually it is the kids who steal the show, but this time, although the children were all darling and did a beautiful job modeling, it was the last man in the fashion show who ended it with his excellent modeling which he followed with clowning, brought laughter and applause. The last line of the script said that the coat and pants he was wearing would be auctioned off, if he would take them off. For a minute it appeared that he was going to—but he reconsidered—and finally walked on down the steps.

A card party followed the show and the auctioning of gifts that had been donated.

Washington Capsules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators and House members may have set a record for overseas travel last year.

Most of the reports are yet to be filed, but the trend indicates the totals will top the $157,575 spent by senators in 1964 and the $239,300 spent by House members.

More spending reports trickled into the Congressional Record Monday. The biggest was $25,323 for members and aides of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy for meetings and inspections in Japan, France, Hong Kong, Israel, Malaysia, Switzerland and Germany.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration expects only minor opposition to its plan for a Cabinet-level Department of Transportation.

The department, as proposed by the President, would corrdinate existing transportation programs, improve safety, promote research and develop a coordinated national transportation policy. It would take over the duties of a host of present federal agencies.

If Congress approves, it will be the first time since George Washington was president that more than one Cabinet-level office was created during a single administration. The Department of Housing and Urban Development was established last year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen says he hasn't decided whether he will filibuster against three bills supported by organized labor.

Dirksen led a filibuster that killed labor's union-shop bill earlier this session. He said in an interview that the House might "take some of the rough corners off" pending bills on minimum wage, unemployment compensation and picketing.

"It all depends on what form they come over from the House," Dirksen said.

Legion Auxiliary Hears Two Students

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 16 met at the Legion Hall March 7 with Verrel Martin, instructor at Smith-Cotton, and two of his students, Pam Bohlken and Janie Vawter, as speakers. They discussed "The undermining of the free society by such acts as sending blood and money to the Viet Cong."

Mrs. R. R. Conn, Sr., Girls State chairman, reported there would be 627 girls attending Girls State this year, 100 short of last year. Business and Professional Women, Rotary, Kiwanis and the Auxiliary each send a girl, however, the American Legion Auxiliary is state sponsor.

After reading a letter from Mrs. Stanley Staidl, national security chairman, concerning Radio Free Europe, members approved sending a contribution.

Mrs. Gardner received recognition for obtaining six new members.

A covered dish dinner was planned for 6:30 p.m. March 17, to celebrate the birthday of the legion. A silent auction is to follow the dinner.

Mrs. Joe Toler and Mrs. A. L. Hawkins, Jr., were welcomed as new members.

Mrs. L. F. Gardner, first vice president, presided, in the absence of Mrs. W. C. Cain, President.

Mrs. Jack Nagel gave the devotional.

The circle voted to hold a silent auction. Plans were also made for a parish dinner to be held at the church March 27. Dr. Herbert Hillme will speak and the quarterly conference will be held.

Mrs. C. F. Wicker gave several stories on the study books which the group has been studying.

Schlesinger JFK Book Wins Award

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Historian Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., accepting a $1,000 prize for his best selling book "A Thousand Days: John F. Kennedy in the White House," paid tribute to the late president Tuesday night.

"What we essentially honor tonight is the spirit and faith of the man who in his thousand days as President of the United States so remarkably quickened the conscience and altered the sensibility of the entire world," he said.

"It is now nearly another thousand days since President Kennedy died," said the historian. "Yet his memory continues to haunt the planet on which he strove so gallantly and so briefly — an undimmed memory of reason, gaiety, nerve and purpose."

Schlesinger's personal memoir of the Kennedy administration, in which he was a special assistant to the president, was one of four prize winners in the National Book Awards, a project of three trade groups in the book publishing industry.

Presentation ceremonies were held in Philharmonic Hall, honoring the most distinguished books of 1965, written by American citizens and published in this country. Each prize was $1,000. Schlesinger's volume was selected in the category of history and biography.

Winner of the fiction prize was "The Collected Stories of Katherine Anne Porter." The 75-year-old veteran author of short stories is best known for her one long novel, "Ship of Fools," which was a best seller in 1962.

In arts and letters the winner was "Paris Journal, 1944-1965," a collection of fortnightly dispatches to the New Yorker magazine by Janet Flanner, written over the signature "Genet."

In poetry the prize went to "Buckdancer's Choice" by James Dickey, 43, an Atlanta native now serving as poet in residence at San Fernando Valley State College in California. He recently was appointed to the 1966-67 term as consultant in poetry in English to the Library of Congress.

John Kenneth Galbraith, Ernest Nagel and James R. Newman, judges in the category of science, philosophy and religion, decided not to make an award.

Each panel of judges had chosen several titles as "leading nominees" before declaring the final winner. This panel had nominated "Coming of Age in America" by Edgar Z. Friedenberg, "The Love of Anxiety" by Charles Frankel, "A Peril and a Hope" by Alice Kimball Smith and "Science and Ethical Values" by Bentley Glass.

It was the first time in the project's 17-year history that an award has been omitted. The judges gave no explanation.

Twice before Schlesinger has been on the "leading nominees" list. Six years ago his "The Coming of the New Deal" was a runnerup to Richard Ellman's "James Joyce." Five years ago his "The Politics of Upheaval" was among the runnersup to William L. Shirer's "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich."

Both of the women who received awards are members of the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

Miss Porter, a native of Texas and a former resident of New Orleans and Mexico, has taught at many colleges.

Miss Flanner, who was born in Indianapolis, has lived in Paris since 1921, and has been writing for the New Yorker since 1925, the year it was founded.

Dickey, a graduate of Vanderbilt University, was decorated three times for his exploits in the U. S. Air Force in World War II and the Korean War. At various times he has been associated with Rice Institute, the University of Florida and Reed College in Oregon.

Schlesinger's book was published by Houghton Mofflin; Miss Porter's by Harcourt, Brace and World; Miss Flanner's by Atheneum, and Dickey's by Wesleyan University Press in Middletown, Conn.

Hollywood Guests Look, Don't Speak

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Last November Princess Margaret of England was guest at a fancy movie-studio luncheon. This week it was Prince Philip. Neither of them said a word.

Not to the gathered lunchers, anyway. The princess's excuse was a bad case of laryngitis. No explanation was made for the prince.

Prince Philip wasn't at a loss for words, however. He carried on a sprightly conversation with Rosalind Russell at his left and Glynis Johns at his right. Also at the head table were Connie Stevens, Mia Farrow, Barbara Parkins, Dorothy Malone, Natalie Wood, Anne Francis and Stephanie Powers.

That's right : females all. Asked for an explanation, a 20th Century-Fox aide replied: "Well, he's a male, isn't he?"

That's about as much logic as the luncheon contained. It was held on the Western-street set of the studio, and the trappings were frontier-style. The lunch was a curious mixture of Caesar salad, prime ribs of beef, barbecued spare ribs, mixed vegetables and hot apple pie with cheese, served with a California wine, Pinot Noir, 1965.

The entertainment was an odd mixture, too. First came a group of bagpipers and Scottish-type dancers from La Habra High School, Calif. The reasoning apparently being that that was just the thing for the Duke of Edinburgh.

The Long Beach Mounted Patrol, cowboy types on palolminos, attempted a ride down the Western street but were headed off at the crossroads; it seemed to be too risky in the star-studded crowd, which included Donna Reed, Groucho Marx, Edward G. Robinson, Robert Cummings, Tony Franciosa, James Garner, Charlton Heston and Keenan Wynn.

The prince was presented with a Winchester rifle by Van Heflin, who made the presentation on behalf of "Stage Coach," a new 20th Century-Fox movie. This was followed by square dancers and a demonstration by Thell Reed, who bills himself as "The Fastest Gun in the World." The prince held his hands over his ears.

The U.S. Marine Corps Band played a medley from "The Sound of Music," another film by 20th Century-Fox, which has the fastest plug in the West.

The luncheon broke up shortly after Prince Philip was presented with a badge by Los Angeles' Sheriff Pete Pitchess, the fastest badge-pinner in the West.

GOP Eying Seats

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) —Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., predicts that the Republicans will pick up 45 seats in the House and at least three seats in the Senate in this year's elections.

He said Republicans consider as prime targets the senatorial races in New Hampshire, Oregon, Illinois, Michigan and tennessee.

Architect's drawing shows the final appearance of a $2.6 million biological sciences building planned at the University of Missouri in Columbia. The building will have an attached teaching greenhouse and a separate research greenhouse, providing 84,000 square feet of office, laboratory and classroom space and 14,300 square feet of greenhouse space. Final plans are being drawn in expectation of asking for bids during the summer.

Music Group To Accompany Candidate For Governor

By REX THOMAS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — "Little George spoke for his daddy four years ago," said Lurleen Wallace. "He can sing for me."

So the folks who turn out to hear Alabama's First Lady in her campaign for governor will get a glimpse also of the rock 'n' roll style of "George Wallace Jr. and the Governor's Five."

"I plan to take them with me to a few rallies," the governor's wife continued. "They're pretty good. I got up the other morning to watch them on a 6:30 television show."

George Jr., 14 and next to youngest of the Wallaces' four children, is an eighth grade pupil at Bellingrath Junior High School in Montgomery. He plays an electric guitar and sings in the combo.

Four years ago, during his father's successful race for governor, young George made a few speeches for him. Standing on a chair to reach the microphone, he told the crowds: "My father is a good man. I want you to vote for him."

The elder Wallace is campaigning again, but this time he's trying to get his wife elected instead of himself. However, both of them have made it abundantly clear that if Mrs. Wallace, 39, becomes Alabama's first woman governor, George will continue to make the policy decisions and run the state government as he has since his inauguration in January 1963. He is barred by law from succeeding himself.

Pausing to look after the youngest child, Janie Lee, 4, candidate Lurleen said: "I'm quite excited . . . at the thought of being the first woman governor."

And, she added, "I think we'll win it. I'm very confident that we will win it." Mrs. Wallace shares her husband's militant segregationist philosophy.

Mrs. Wallace and her husband have said they will travel throughout the state in quest of votes in the May 3 Democratic primary. During the interview, she emphasized the togetherness with repeated reference to "our" campaign.

In their first appearance together after she became a candidate, Mrs. Wallace spoke for two minutes at a rally in Birmingham; the governor talked for more than 30 minutes.

Mrs. Wallace has made no attempt to avoid discussion of her recent surgery — a hysterectomy — and the disclosure that she was treated for cancer.

"My health is good," she declared with emphasis. "I have statements from the doctors if it becomes necessary to use them. There is absolutely nothing wrong with me."

After her operation in January of this year, the doctors issued a statement saying no further evidence of malignancy could be found and that the cancer had been halted. They said they found no reason why she could not carry on a normal life.

Mrs. Wallace said the response to her campaign for governor "has been tremendous, even before I announced." And since then, she said she has received an average of 350 to 400 letters a day. She hopes to answer each one, with the help of two typists working sometimes into the night.

The governor's wife spends much of her time with her children — George Jr., Janie Lee and Peggy, 16, who still live at home, and Mrs. James Parsons, 21, of Birmingham, another daughter.

"They all encouraged me to run," she said. "They think it's wonderful. After all, they have been around politics for a long time. (The governor spent six years in the Legislature and six years as a judge before becoming chief executive."

If she is elected, Mrs. Wallace has promised to continue what she calls the "progress, prosperity and honest, efficient government which has been so much in evidence during the administration of my husband."

Life In Outer Space

'UCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — American astronaut Walter Schirra believes life in some form must exist in outer space.

Answering questions at a news conference in Auckland tonight, Schirra said: "There are so many planets — more, even, it is said, than grains of sand in a desert — that I believe there must be one or more where life is possible.

"It might not, of course, resemble anything we know."

Schirra, astronaut Frank Borman and their wives are in Auckland on the second day of a tour of New Zealand.

The Business World

Wall Street Is Raising Skeptical Brow to Trend

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The administration is holding to its view that the economy can go on expanding without overheating or setting off rapid inflation. But Wall Street is raising a skeptical eyebrow.

Official Washington spokesmen are reaffirming that increased government spending, business spending and consumer spending are healthy—and even needed.

They are pooh-poohing worries that the sharp drop in the jobless rate and coincidental shortages of workmen with certain skills is dangerous.

They insist that the economy still has plenty of resources to tap and labor to employ in order to go on growing and to supply all the funds wanted for both the Viet Nam war and the "Great Society."

At the same time, the administration spokesmen are hedging each pronouncement with the assurance that if overheating starts, if inflation gets out of hand, the White House will move quickly to cool things down by asking for higher taxes on corporations and individuals.

Why is Wall Street so skeptical, as shown by the sharp sell-off in the stock market?

Some of the economic rules haven't been operating quite as many had anticipated a few months back.

The rise of interest rates to the highest levels in 30 years would normally be supposed to put a brake on the boom in spending. But bankers say that so far it hasn't, and their big problem is to find the money to lend to their clamoring customers.

Most of these are businessmen seeking to finance activities which have been expanding faster than earlier expected. They are also expected to borrow heavily—either at the bank or by floating bonds or other securities—to pay for their swelling plans for building new plants and buying new equipment.

Wall Street also notes that many industries now are operating close to maximum profitable capacity—that is, from now on more production would have to be in less profitable, because outdated, plants. It is this bumping against the capacity ceiling, when demand for goods is rising, that has led to slow but steady increase in both industrial and consumer prices.

Consumers also are going right on seeking loans. Most of these are for the big ticket items such as cars. There's less mortgage borrowing for home purchases.

The auto industry reports that new car sales this month have been setting a record for March. Many buyers are doing so on the monthly payment plan.

'Batman Day On TV'

St. Patrick Gets 'Lost' Between Spies And Batman

By ED MCCUSKER

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — With Batman and international spies so popular these days, it's hard to impress a youngster with the importance of St. Patrick—even if his family ties go back to the old country.

"Sean," I asked my nephew the other day, "do you know what Thursday is?"

"Sure, Unk, that's Batman Day on television."

I looked into the face of the 7-year-old and rubbed his thatch of carrot-colored hair, and said, "It's also St. Patrick's Day."

"Was he a spy?"

"No, but he was a good guy. He was against the bad guys."

"Like Thrush, huh?"

"Thrush?"

"Yeah, Thrush, in 'The Man from U.N.C.L.E.,'" he said.

I poured him a glass of milk and fetched some cookies to rivet his attention.

Before I could make my pitch for St. Patrick—the man from Ireland—he said: "Batman has a cape and he can fly."

It must have been about that time that St. Pat smiled on me because I conjured up a bit of blarney:

"St. Patrick was kind of a spy for the good guys. A lot of people from Thrush were in a country called Ireland, a long time ago. The bad ones didn't care about good things. They would fight and steal and kill each other."

"So, St. Patrick was assigned to Ireland on a special mission to drive out the bad guys. They were called snakes.

"He would walk into little towns, unafraid. He wore a long green cape and told the people to try to be good."

Sean interrupted, "Batman has a cape."

"That's right. Well, St. Patrick spent most of his life fighting the bad guys. And now on March 17 each year, we remember him on this special day. People from Ireland and descendants of the Irish honor St. Patrick."

About that time, his mother came through the kitchen door and said:

"Sean, you devil, I've been looking all over for you. Sister Margaret called from school and she wants you to play Batman in the school play on St. Patrick's Day."

He grabbed a supply of cookies and raced out the door yelling over his shoulder, "Sorry, about that chief!"

Hal Boyle is ill.

Reminders Still Remain

Soviet Voice a Whisper In Ghana

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—The once loud voice of the Soviet Union in Ghana has been lowered to a discreet diplomatic whisper.

Army and police officers who overthrew absent President Kwame Nkrumah Feb. 24 quickly ordered the expulsion of almost 1,000 Soviet advisers.

They were hustled through Accra airport at riflepoint and herded into Soviet-built transports belonging to Ghana Airways. The shuttle service to Moscow has ended.

Many reminders of the Soviet Union remain.

The army, which ousted all Russians except the Soviet Embassy staff, rides around in jeep-like cars built in the Soviet Union.

Bulldozers designed for wintry climes are a rusty reminder of ill-planned aid. These Soviet machines have closed cabins heated by the engine. Heat is the last thing needed in this tropical land.

The Ministry of Education is busily transferring teachers to fill gaps left by some 100 deported Soviet instructors.

A fishing project in nearby Tema, which even Western diplomats praised as expert and intelligent aid, is bogged down because many Soviet technicians were sent away.

Left unfinished is a $30-million airfield in northern Ghana which Westerners here understand was to provide an alternative stop for Moscow to Havana flights.

The cream of Ghanaian society once flocked to social gatherings at the Soviet embassy. Thousands turned out to greet Soviet space girl Valentina Tereshkova during her visit two years ago.

Now civil servants studiously avoid Soviet diplomats. Ghanaian journalists quickly moved away when a Soviet correspondent approached them at the local press club.

The Russians were overshadowed in recent years in Ghana by the Communist Chinese. Nkrumah favored Peking, according to one Ghanaian official, in the belief that China's agricultural economy had more in common with Ghana's than the industrialized Soviet Union.

Peking termed the revolt leading to the expulsion of its 200 advisers an "atrocity." Soviet Ambassador Georgi Rodionov reportedly commented: "These things happen."

New Fashions Radiating In Glitter

NEW YORK (AP) —Women who like to be first in what's new are clamoring for garments that can have them radiating like glowworms when the lights go out.

And very soon at the races jockeys in the pitch of night will be riding horses which ear harnesses lit up like Times Square.

The new fashion brilliance of people and horses has to do with phosphorescence, "a property" the dictionary says, "which gives off light."

Comark vinyl, a glossy plastic material which recently won several awards for its glowing technical achievement, is suddenly finding its way to all sorts of dark places.

At Roberto Capucci's collection in Paris last tonth, the blacked-out finale was a spectre of disembodied females in costumes made of the glowing plastic.

American coat, suit, hat, shoe and skiwear manufacturers have been pioneering these garments that will eventually let a girl look like a candle burning at all ends.

Some advocates tout the safety factors of these garments.

A woman so dressed can shed her own light down darkened stairwells. in luminous shoes her toes have more than a fighting chance with clumsy dancing partners.

There are other advantages. A woman can always find such a coat in a dark closet. And her escort can always find her.

Kueck Wins Oratorical Competition

Bruce Kueck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kueck, 904 South Quincy, was again first place winner in the Boys Oratorical Contest held Tuesday noon at Bothwell Hotel. Bruce was the winner of the local contest last year and also the zone contest, going on to the district or state contest. He will go to Marshall Monday evening, March 21, to compete again in the zone contest.

Second place winner was Kenneth Mosier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Mosier, Route 4, Sedalia.

Third place winner was Bob Freund, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Freund, 415 West 23rd.

All three boys received trophies and certificates.

A certificate was also given to Ronald Esser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Esser, 501 Dal-Whi-Mo Court.

Judges were Rev. George Sparling, J. R. Fritz and Jim Durley.

Lt. Governor Clinton Black presented the trophies.

The subject on which the contestants spoke was: "Optimism, Youth's Greatest Asset."

Since the beginning of time, the first place winner, Bruce Kueck, pointed out, man has had a driving force, and this driving force is optimism. Optimism, he stressed, cannot be bought and cannot be sold, it can only be experienced.

It does not mean, he said, that the future should be viewed through rose colored windows for life does have challenges. Optimism stimulates the best in youth and as in the Optimist Creed, "To forget the mistakes of the past and press on to the greater achievements of the future." Illustrating what he meant with the life of Lincoln, Kueck cited that Lincoln went into politics and was defeated, he failed in business and failed again and again in politics, but said Kueck, he went on to become the great emancipator.

He then told of Charles Lindbergh, who on May 21, 1927 made the historic solo flight from New York to Paris when they said it couldn't be done.

Today's youth, he said, must rise to meet the challenge and the challenges will be met.

Kenneth Mosier, second place winner, explained that a small percent of the youth today go in for vandalism and things that lead them into trouble before they have had time to realize the full meaning of life, and they ruin their futures.

He went on to say that fortunately most youths wanted to make something out of their lives and there are many things that offer a bigger challenge to youth than ever before.

Bob Freund, third place winner, stated that sometimes in this day and age it is hard for youth to be optimists, but it is optimism that helps them to handle the daily problems that come to them. One can't let life get the best of them, he said, they must be optimists but it must be realistic optimism.

Ronald Esser pointed out that optimism is the greatest thing in the world, even greater than health, for with optimism a girl who was born blind, deaf and speechless, overcame her handicaps for a wonderful life, as many others have done. It is impossible to separate happiness and optimism, he said, and the reward of optimism is great. The pessimist in his fearful, grumbling way loses even while winning.

Wray Schroeder, president, presided over the meeting, and invocation was given by Fred Biggs. Mrs. Keith Maynard accompanied the group singing.

Guests introduced were Bob Jackson and Sid Sturges, Kansas City, and Lynford Hackler. Other guests included mothers of the contestants, Mrs. Mosier, Mrs. Esser and Mrs. Freund. Wives of Optimist members were special guests.

Bob Jackson, an Optimist member from Kansas City, spoke briefly on the need for support of athletics in Kansas City both baseball and football, from the Kansas City area, and stated they are now selling script, $55 worth for $50, which can be used for any of the games.

R. L. Settles reminded all to sell their tickets for the premier showing here of "My Fair Lady" on March 24, at the Fox Theatre; which will have the fanfare of opening nights in cities as well as valuable door prizes.

Air of Doubt On Patrick's Activities

NEW YORK (AP) — On the eve of St. Patrick's Day the Irish may fall victim to the same fate that set off the Italians just before Columbus Day.

What happened is that an Irish scholar at the University of Detroit suggested Tuesday that St. Patrick is mostly legend —and actually may have been two different people.

"We have documents of another Patrick far too early for the St. Patrick we now celebrate," said Dr. John Mahoney, two generations removed from County Cork and County Kerry. "The first probably did part of the work we credit to St. Patrick."

Mahoney said St. Patrick would have had to have lived to be 125 to accomplish all that is credited to him.

A few days before Columbus Day last year Yale University came out with its Vinland map, which scholars said indicated that Viking Leif Erickson explored America centuries before Columbus. The Italians, to put it mildly, were upset.

Are the Irish about to get their Irish up? There seems little likelihood of a Donnybrook since most took the whole idea as blarney.

"That theory is as old as the hills," said George E. Ryan, president of the Boston Eire Society. "You even hear some people talking about there being three St. Patricks. The important thing about a legend is not whether it's true or not, but that millions believed one man did all those things."

Finn Walsh, a bartender in Kansas City and a native of County Kerry, said: "The good gentleman's probably just a bit mixed up. I just don't know where he could have found the second."

As far as St. Patrick's accomplishments are concerned, New York City Council President Frank D. O'Connor, grand marshal of New York's parade Thursday, has an answer.

"He seemed like two men because he got so much done," O'Connor said.

Postmaster General Fails In Cupid Role Despite His Efforts

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien tried to smooth romance's rough edges for a young couple thwarted by poor mail service. He failed.

The couple has called off marriage plans and decided to be "just good friends."

Last November, M. Delane Roberts, 23, of Concord, Calif., mailed a package to his sweetheart. It didn't arrive in time for the 21st birthday of Bonnie J. Bishop, a senior at Brigham Young University in Provo.

So Roberts wrote to O'Brien, explaining that he felt "like a dog in the dog house." He asked the postmaster general if he wouldn't apologize for the package's delay.

Roberts also told O'Brien he intended to propose to Bonnie Christmas Day.

Bonnie received her birthday package and a letter of apology from the postmaster general on the same day. "He must be awfully sweet to do something like that," she said of O'Brien.

This week Bonnie said she and Roberts had decided to forget about marriage plans.

However, she hadn't forgotten the postmaster general's gesture. "I'd like to thank Mr. O'Brien for all his help," she said.

towards the support of state colleges and University of Missouri through taxes not seen on their normal tax bills. Costs of operating these colleges and the university keep rising because of the load which is being placed on these institutions by heavy enrollments. Part of the solution to this problem is to establish Junior Colleges to help alleviate these high costs which all residents have to share indirectly.

More interest seemed to be displayed by the audience in the tuition costs and the curriculum which could be established. All three members of the panel stressed the fact that Junior College tuitions are lower than at state colleges, the University, and private institutions. With most college students being able to reside at home if a Junior College were located here, a student's cost for the two years would be relatively small. It was speculated, based on averages, that the Junior College here would cost around $100 per year per student, this again being determined by the local needs and facilities provided.

As to the curriculum, it was pointed out it would be difficult at this point to anticipate what would be offered. The usual procedure, according to Cobble, is for the board of trustees to select a trained and skilled administrative head for the school. Following this, a diversified group of private citizens are selected as advisers in order to develop what the needs of the community are. Many visits are usually made to other colleges to ascertain what is practical. Benefiting by this experience on the part of other institutions, a local program is then set up.

Davis related there are many programs in addition to liberal arts training being given in some of the Missouri junior colleges. He cited such examples as nurses' training, data processing, hotel and restaurant management, law enforcement, fire fighting, electrical and mechanical training. He added the desires and needs of the community will have a great bearing on what courses are offered other than the usual requirements.

One of the greatest benefits found in some areas of Missouri is that junior colleges have been the salvation for many students who find the pressures from a larger college or university creating problems of adjustment. A substantial number return to enroll in a junior college and find the smaller classes and more individual guidance given to the student are responsible in helping that student to regain his confidence and desire to complete college. Later on, these students find themselves better adjusted for the following two years at a larger school.

In the junior colleges in the state, many people are enrolled in adult courses. Some of these take such courses either for improvement in an area they particularly like, while other adults do works toward a degree, Davis stated.

As to college buildings, many junior colleges are using existing buildings on a temporary basis. In some instances, they employ the high school facilities through an afternoon and evening schedule such as four to 10 p. m.

In conclusion, the panel pointed out that if the junior college proposal carried on April 5, it would probably not be before September, 1967 that a school program could be gotten underway. Davis remarked, "You cannot open overnight."

Dr. O. J. Durnell, chairman of the Citizens Committee for the junior college, moderated the meeting.

19-Ton Tank Hard Toy To Take Home

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Jerry Bouman Jr. finally got his new toy home for the kiddies. But it wasn't easy.

The toy is a 19-ton Army tank which Bouman bought from a Detroit tavern keeper. He hopes to use it to give his wife and three children rides around their 11-acre property in suburban Belmont.

"I'm a bug on tanks and my wife is almost as bad," Bouman said.

Bouman and the tank arrived home Tuesday after an overnight trip from Detroit.

The tank was hauled 145 miles on a flat-bed truck at a cost of $215, about a third of the price of the tank.

It also cost Bouman a lot of sweat.

The Kent County road commission ruled the tank was too heavy for a small bridge. So Bouman had to detour six blocks. It took three hours of towing, winching and bracing, up and down several hills.

On hand to welcome the tank were Bouman's wife, Donna and 5-year-old daughter Sheri Yvonne. Two sons, Jerry, 8, and Mark, 6, were at school — under protest.

Bouman, a former Navy aviation mechanic, works in an appliance factory and repairs and makes guns part-time. He said he got interested in tanks by reading about them. So did his wife.

"I probably wouldn't have done it on my own," he said. "But the more you read about tanks the more they interest you."

This one, a World War II model T6 which sports two inoperative 37mm antiaircraft guns and twin Cadillac engines, is the first he has owned.

Bouman hopes to have the engines running by the weekend.

As for Mrs. Bouman, she can hardly wait for her first ride, but she thinks she probably will have to, because: "Everybody and his brother-in-law says they're first."

World News In Brief

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — An estimated 2,500 Watusi tribesmen led by several Peking-trained guerrilla - warfare experts are massed in Burundi on the border with Rwanda and are apparently preparing to invade Rwanda, their homeland, intelligence sources report.

Wives and children of the American Embassy staff in Kigali, the capital of Rwanda, have been evacuated to Nairobi, and the Canadian air force is preparing to fly out nearly 100 Canadians teaching at Rwanda's national university in Butare.

The warlike Watusis—some of whom are seven feet tall—are said to be armed with modern automatic weapons mostly from Communist China.

The Watusis fled Rwanda in 1963 when that little country's more numerous Bahutus turned on them and killed thousands.

Cause of the fire was not immediately known.

Four Sedalia Cagers Given Berths On All-District Team This Year

Maple And Whitney On First Teams

Four Sedalia high school basketball players were honored in the selection of the South-Central all-district basketball teams made by the district's sportswriters and sportscasters recently.

Mike Maple, Sacred Heart senior, and James Whitney, Smith-Cotton junior, were selected for the first team of Class S and Class L schools respectively.

Ron Kruse of Sacred Heart and Larry Bell of Smith-Cotton made the second teams of their respective classes.

Tom Munson of Smith-Cotton was given honorable mention on the Class L selections.

The remainder of the Class L first team are Jon Staggers, Jefferson City Helias; Don Morford, Rolla; Tom Preston, Jefferson City Public, and Larry Hawkins, Fulton.

The remainder of the Class S first team are Steve Slaughter, Eugene; Ken Phillips, Tuscumbia; James Wiessing, Pilot Grove, and Kenny Nivens, Jamestown.

Whitney, one of two juniors on the Class L all-district first team, sparked the Tigers to a 13-15 season record and to within one game of the regional championship with a tremendous 410 point total to lead his teammates. Whitney also was the most consistent scorer for the Tigers and came out with the highest scoring percentage with 14.3. Whitney, a 5-11 jumping jack, also proved his ability to come off the boards and was among the Tiger leaders in rebounds.

Preston, a transfer to Jefferson City Senior High from Wyandotte High in Kansas City, Kan., was the Jays leading pointmaker with an 11.7 shooting percentage. A top flight dribbler and ball handler, Tom also was one of the club's best free-throw shooters. This 5-10 junior's driving ability helped the Jays to their fine record.

Jon Staggers tallied an unbelievable 636 points to lead the Helias Crusaders to victory and also establish himself as the top scorer in the school's history. He held a 23.5 shooting percentage and led in rebounding with over 200. Not only at Helias, Jon was also top scorer in the Jefferson City area.

Don Morford, Rolla's 6-11 senior, led the Bulldogs to the CMC championship with over 500 points, good for second in the entire conference. Don also led the club in rebounding and blocked shots.

Mike Maple, averaging 10.1 points per game last season for the Gremlins, built that average to 15.9 this season and topped his team in every category. He hit 70 per cent from the foul line and 41.5 from the field. Mike claimed 140 assists and averaged four rebounds per game.

Slaughter, Eugene's 5-10 senior, hit the hoop for 45 percent of his shots and averaged 14.5 points per game. A good hustler and ball handler, Steve led his team to a conference championship for the third straight year.

Phillips, Tuscumbia's best all-around performer, averaged nearly 17 points per game for a team finishing 24-7. Ken proved to be a clutch shooter, especially in big games.

Nivens, who hit for 21.6 points per game, hit 43 per cent of his field goal attempts. Kenny was also a better than average defender for his 5-11 frame.

Wiessing, although his team tied for second place in their league, was top scorer in his conference with a 25.4 average. Only 5-8, this hustler scored mostly on drives and outside jump shots.

In the class M selections, first-team members are Ronnie Shreve, Iberia; Ray Forrest, Versailles; Frank Durbin, St. James; Mel Lewis, Ashland, and Dan Schroeder, Linn.

Shreve, who scored 17.6 points a contest for Iberia, led his team to the first round of the state playoffs. A junior, Ronnie was the best rebounder on the squad and his 58 percent of his field goal attempts.

Forrest totaled better than 400 points for the Tri-County co-champs, averaging 17.5 tallies a contest. Ray also grabbed 215 rebounds in leading his club to a 21-7 record.

Durbin, a 6-1 senior, has led St. James in scoring for the past two seasons, averaging 18 points a game. He also led his club in rebounding with 10.5 per game.

Lewis, a 6-4 center, turned in an amazing 768 points and a 24.8 average to help his club to second place in the regionals. He topped the Columbia area in scoring while leading his team to a 24-7 mark.

Dan Schroeder, playing for an under 500 team, scored 49 percent of his field goal attempts and 80 percent of his foul shots. Dan also pulled down over 200 rebounds.

Those making the Class L second team in addition to Bell were Larry Frank, Rolla; Randy Ketchum, Jefferson City Public; Dennis Adrian, Fulton, and Henry Rieke, Jefferson City Helias.

Members of the Class M second team are: David Sublett, Cole Camp; Ron Kappelmann, California; Paul Perkins, Steelville; Jim Blackwell, St. James, and Lee Williams, Versailles.

Besides Kruse, those selected for the Class S second team were Jim Stombaugh, Crocker; Dallas Hensley, Tuscumbia; Don Cantrial, Bland, and David Wendleton, Pilot Grove.

S-C Opens '66 Track Season This Saturday

The Smith-Cotton Tigers will open the 1966 track season with the Central Missouri Conference indoor meet at Columbia Saturday. The meet will be held at Brewer Fieldhouse and will begin at 12:30 p.m.

Coach Fred Long stated that he plans to take 16 men to this important meet. He further stated that among these 16 will be 12 returning lettermen. As usual, Columbia and Jefferson City will have strong teams at the meet.

California Football Coach Quits

Robert C. Fletcher — who has guided California High School football fortunes for the past six campaigns — has resigned his position as head coach, it was announced today.

Fletcher, who has compiled a 34-18-1 mark at California, says his plans at the present time are indefinite, but that he wants to stay in coaching.

His teams won the Tri-County conference title two straight years and posted 20 consecutive victories at the outset of football in the league.

He has also handled the track program for the past three seasons, winning the conference the last two. His 1964 indoor track squad won the state Class B title and his 1965 team took second.

Fletcher has also served as assistant basketball coach for the past several campaigns and worked with the Junior High teams this past year.

Big Eight Attendance Sets Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boosted by big years at Kansas and Kansas State and record turnouts at Nebraska and Iowa State, Big Eight basketball attendance set a record and produced the second best average in league history.

The league average was 6,400 second only to the 6,911 for 70 home games in 1957, Wilt Chamberlain's first year at Kansas and one season before Oklahoma State joined the league.

Total attendance for 88 home games this season was 563,230, almost 66,000 more than the record set last year.

Kansas drew 124,300 fans and averaged 12,430, third best average in league history, fifth best total and an increase of 3,887 over last year. The Jayhawks averaged 15,500 for 10 games in 1957 and 12,944 for nine games in 1958, the two best averages in league annals.

K-State failed to lead the Big Eight in attendance for only the third time since Ahearn fieldhouse was opened 16 years, although the Wildcats averaged 11,209, fourth best in K-State history and up 612 over last year.

Nebraska's average of 6,835 was a school record and a jump of 2,302 over last year. Iowa State's 7,000 also was a record—the Cyclones drew a capacity crowd every game—and an increase of 2,100 over last year.

The other four schools showed declines, but only Oklahoma State, off 2,422 a game to 3,608, had a major drop. Oklahoma was down 228 to 3,209, third best in the last 15 years. Colorado was down 763 to 4,932, and Missouri dropped 967 to a 2,700 average.

Wills, Grant Sign Up

White Spells Out Trouble For Cards

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Night club entertainers Maury Wills and Jim Grant have decided there's no business like baseball. Bill White, on the other hand, is giving the St. Louis Cardinals the business.

Wills and Grant finally agreed to new contracts Tuesday, ending extended holdouts and leaving five stars, all pitchers, unsigned — Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale of Los Angeles, Jim Maloney of Cincinnati and Juan Marichal and Bob Shaw of San Francisco.

White, traded by the Cardinals to Philadelphia during the winter, hit three consecutive home runs in the Phillies' 8-7 exhibition victory over Boston.

Wills, who originally sought $100,000, signed a contract reportedly calling for $75,000. The Los Angeles shortstop also reportedly was told that if he produces as expected he will receive as much as an extra $10,000.

The 33-year-old speedster, who returned a week ago from Japan where he toured with his night club act, said he thinks he can get ready to go full speed within three weeks.

Grant, whose act was billed as Mudcat and the Kittens, flew to Orlando, Fla., and promptly signed for a figure said to be between $35,000 and $38,000.

He received $21,000 last year when he won 21 games for American League champion Minnesota and originally wanted $50,000 for 1966.

The right-hander said he was anxious to get into pitching condition after his three-week holdout although he is in good shape from his singing and dancing routine.

White, meanwhile, displayed excellent condition with his volley of home runs. All three blasts came with the bases empty and sailed over the right-field fence in Winter Haven, Fla.

The Cardinals were not without power of their own. Tito Francona and Tim McCarver each stroked two-run homers as St. Louis handed winless Minnesota its sixth straight setback 7-5.

Pittsburgh won its fifth without a loss, nipping Cincinnati 4-3 behind the homers of Bill Mazeroski and Matty Alou. Pitcher Gary Peters rapped a bases-loaded triple and Tommy Agee homered, powering the Chicago White Sox past Houston 7-3.

Jack Cullen pitched three scoreless innings as the New York Yankees whipped Atlanta 7-2 while Chuck Estrada did the same in California's 6-4 triumph over Cleveland.

Pitcher Al Stanek lashed a three-run double, helping San Francisco to a 6-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs, but a two-base throwing error by pitcher Howie Koplitz enabled Baltimore to edge Washington 6-5.

Johnny Lewis drove in the tie-breaking run with a single as the New York Mets downed Los Angeles 4-1, and Kansas City trimmed Detroit 7-6 when Randy Schwartz tripled home two runs and scored on a wild throw.

Two Top Teams On Losers Side

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Wilson of Chicago and Ferrum, Va., teams with highly impressive statistics, are both in the losers' bracket after first-round action in the National Junior College Basketball Tournament.

Wilson came into the tournament with a perfect record but lost to Dallas, Tex., Baptist 91-83.

Ferrum, averaging 111 points a game, scored only 68 as Lebanon of Tennessee took an 83-68 verdict. Ferrum's Johnny Quinn, an all-tourney selection last year wound up with 29 points and game honors.

In other games Tuesday, Hutchinson crushed Wesley of Dover, Del., 102-78 behind Larry Berry's 19 points; Tyler, Tex., edged Casper, Wyo., 73-71; Leicester, Mass., defeated North Dakota School of Science 81-73, and Moberly, Mo., making its 14th appearance in the tourney since 1948, stopped Alpena, Mich 78-69.

Today's schedule:

1 p.m. — Burlington, Iowa vs. Cameron A&M, Okla.

2:45 p.m.—Chipola of Marianna, Fla. vs. Dixie of St. George, Utah.

6 p.m.—Wilson vs. North Dakota Science. (Loser's bracket)

7:45 p.m.—Dallas Baptist vs. Leicester. (Winner's bracket quarter-final)

9:30 p.m.—Moberly vs. Tyler (Winner's quarter-final)

MVC League Attendance Highest Yet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri Valley Conference basketball attendance this season was the highest in league history, as Wichita set a league record for the third consecutive year and Louisville had the third highest average in Valley history.

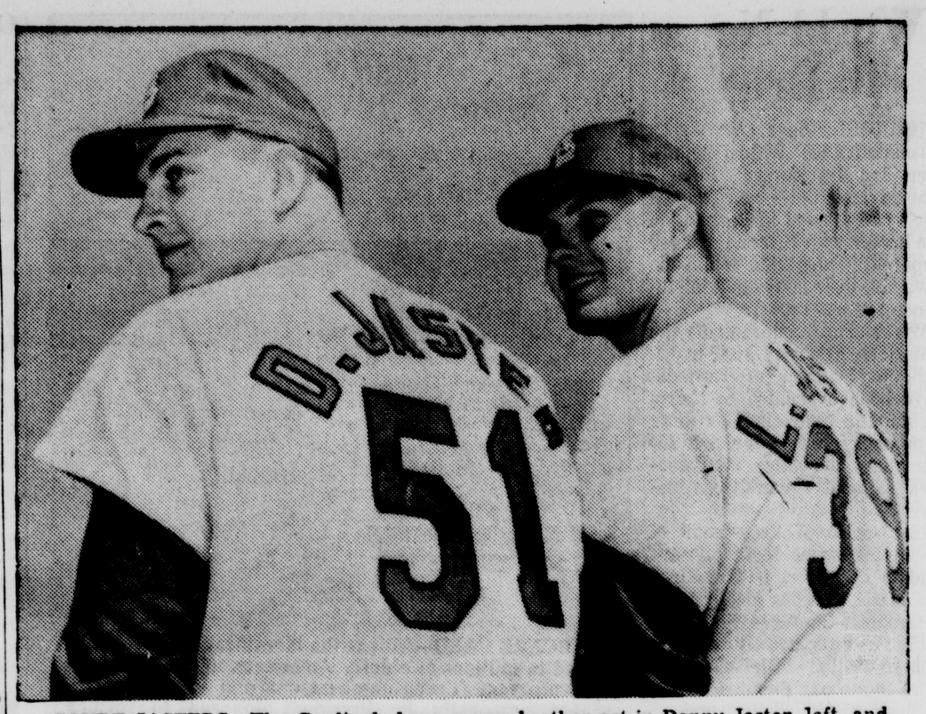
Valley teams drew 731,356 double the league's home football fans to 106 home games, about double the league's home football attendance. The average of 6,805 a game was almost 600 above the former record of 6,211 in 1964 and 672 above last year.

Wichita's average of 10,741 a game was 429 above the Valley record set by the Shockers a year ago. Louisville averaged 9,884, a jump of 2,086 a game over its 1965 average and second in Valley history only to Wichita's 1965 average.

All eight teams in the league showed increases over 1965. Four teams set school records—Wichita, Louisville, Tulsa and North Texas.

Drake's average of 6,199 was an increase of 1,026 a game over 1965 and just missed the school record of 6,227 set in 1964. Tulsa averaged 4,313, almost 600 above the old record, and North Texas 3,218, a scant nine fans a game above the old mark set two years ago.

Cincinnati averaged 6,966, an increase for the league champs of 738 over last year but well under the school record of 8,127 in 1963. St. Louis drew 6,633 a game, a gain of 44 over last year but well under the school record of 8,641 in 1955, Dick Boushka's senior year. Bradley's average of 6,520 was up 253 over last year but 465 under the record.



COURT JASTERS—The Cardinals have a new brother act in Danny Jaster, left, and Larry. Both are lefthanders. Larry had a brief chance with St. Louis at the end of last year and did well with a 3-0 record.

Heads For Draft Board

Finance Reports Gloomy; Clay Nears Last Fight

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cassius Clay's last fight in possibly a couple of years could turn out to be a financial bomb for the champion.

As the heavyweight champion (except in World Boxing Association territory) prepared to leave Miami for a fateful meeting with his Louisville draft board Thursday, most of the reports on finances concerning his defense against George Chuvalo seemed to be gloomy.

Clay, or Muhammad Ali as he prefers to be called, could wind up with a gross purse of about $71,500 before taxes for his 15-rounder with the Canadian champion at the Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto, March 29. And taxes could chop that figure to $40,000 or so.

There will be no radio broadcast of the bout and the British Broadcasting Corp., which had contracted for a live telecast of the projected Clay-Ernie Terrell fight, said Tuesday it was not interested in the Clay-Chuvalo fight for an expensive relay by Early Bird satellite.

Closed-circuit television provides the biggest part of the loot for heavyweight title fights these days but the pickings may be small for this 5-1 and out (get 5-1 on Chuvalo but can't bet Clay) bout which has been denounced as a mismatch by several boxing organizations.

Main Bout, Inc., which owns the ancillary rights including closed - circuit television, originally had hoped to have more than 200 outlets for the television. Mike Malitz, the executive vice-president of MBI, said the major theater chains which agreed to take the Clay-Terrell fight, have dropped out of the agreement.

MBI could end up with just a handful of outlets. It could be that the promotion's share of the theater-TV gross may not be more than $100,000.

The live fight in the Maple Leafs Gardens doesn't figure to gross more than $200,000 at prices ranging from $7 to $100.

Clay is contracted for 50 per cent of everything. Half of a $200,000 gate would be $100,000 Canadian—or $93,000 American. Half of of $100,000 ancillary pot would make his total $143,000.

From this $143,000 Clay has to pay half to the Louisville sponsoring group which manages him. The Louisville group pays expenses.

So the unbeaten 24-year-old champ would have $71,500—before taxes—for his end. That's not chicken feed but it's a sharp drop from the purses he received for his two fights with Sonny Liston and one with Floyd Patterson.

Ring Magazine estimates Clay's purses for those three fights at $360,000, $480,000 and $692,000.

Clay plans to appeal his 1-A draft status in Louisville Thursday. If he accepts military service, he'll be out of action for at least two years. If he asks to be classed as a conscientous objector—and this is granted—he'll still be out of boxing for a couple of years in non-military service.

It was his statement following his draft reclassification from 1-Y to 1-A that apparently triggered some of the earlier cancellations of the theater TV.

"I've got nothing against them Viet Congs," Clay told newsmen.

In Wrestling Action

Geigel, Brown To Defend Tag Team Championship

A fast, rugged pace is anticipated tonight at Convention Hall when brawny Bob Geigel and Bob Brown defend their North American tag team wrestling championship.

The two maulers are set for a stiff challenge from Cowboy Bob Ellis and the towering Stomper.

Geigel has already served notice that the challengers had better be prepared for a rough night. "They won't find us easy," he remarked. "Ellis and the Stomper may look like they have style, but in the rough and tumble they just don't measure up," the Iowan added.

Geigel and Brown, both between the 235-240 range in weight have been an effective tandem in title action. Geigel is adept with all the roughing devices and has imparted his knowledge to the younger Brown.

Ellis, a tall Texan who is swift and strong, has parlayed his speed and the rodeo headlock into an effective combination. His alliance with the 265-pound Stomper adds considerable heft and power to the team. The Stomper is regarded as one of the area's strongest heavyweights and is a king-sized test for any opponent.

There'll be a test of speed and skill in tonight's semifinal when Sonny Myers takes on Jerry Kozak. The latter is a young heavyweight who was tutored in the lumber camps of the Northwest region and learned his lessons well. Myers has been one of Missouri's most talented wrestlers for two decades.

Launching tonight's program at 8:15 is a battle between veteran Lee (Bulldog) Henning and Oki Sikima, the Japanese import who has been a scourge in area rings the last few weeks.

Gil Seeks Ruin Of Progression

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — In Gil Hodges' three seasons as manager, the Washington Senators have finished 10th, ninth and eighth. Now he's looking forward to ruining the arithmetic progression, skipping seventh and sixth and hopping into the first division.

"We won 70 games last year and I can't see any reason why we can't win 11 more this year," Hodges explained. "That would put us at .500 and get us into the first division. I won't be unhappy if we don't do it but I think it's within reach.

"I'm basing my estimates on two avenues of improvement: Our run production can't be as low as it was last year when the guys up the middle — catcher, shortstop, second baseman and center fielder — didn't help us and the fact we have five, six, seven good, young pitchers who should be ready.

"We've been patient for three or four years with some of them and they should be ready to live up to their potential."

Hodges referred to Pete Richert and Phil Ortega, who won 15 and 12 games, respectively, last season after being acquired from the Los Angeles Dodgers: and Jim Duckworth, Frank Kreutzer, Buster Narum, Mike McCormick and Jim Hannan.

Right now, Richert and Ortega figure to be one-two. Of the others only McCormick, the onetime bonus baby, is a fully known product. The rest will have to prove their capabilities. But if they do, the Senators will have the necessary first-line to go with capable relievers Ron Kline and Steve Ridzik.

As for run production, Hodges figures that John Orsino, acquired from the Orioles, will give the Senators more hitting in the catcher's spot. The other key spots up the middle have Hodges talking in terms of doubles.

If Don Blasingame, .223 last year, can't hit more, Ken Hamlin will take over at second. If Ed Brinkman, .185 last year, doesn't improve, Bob Saverine will get the call at short. If Don Lock, 39 runs batted in, doesn't lift his total, Fred Valentine will be the center fielder.

Both Saverine and Valentine have been around, and both had good seasons in the minors last year, particularly Valentine, who hit .324 with 25 homers and 89 runs batted in at Hawaii and also stole 58 bases.

Right field also is up for grabs, with Jim King, Willie Kirland and Bob Chance battling for the job. But there's no doubt about left field, where Frank Howard remains The Big Buy off last season's .289 batting average, 21 homers and 84 runs batted in.

Third base belongs to Ken McMullen, who along with Howard, Richert and Ortega came to the Senators in the trade that sent Claude Osteen and John Kennedy to the Dodgers. McMullen hit .263 with 18 homers and 54 RBI last year.

Dick Nen, another former Dodger, will get the first shot at first base, with veteran Joe Cunningham and Chance waiting in the wings.

Economics Main Goal For Drivers

WICHITA (AP) — Economical operation is the main goal for 50 drivers who near the halfway point at Wichita today in a grueling coast-to-coast test.

They are in the annual Mobile Economy Run from Los Angeles to Boston this year. They started Monday and will finish by Sunday—averaging nearly 500 miles a day for the 3,300 miles.

Gasoline consumption is the main test but referees grade the drivers on ability, alertness, attention to traffic and safety rules.

Some drivers are veterans of speedways. They know all the tricks of acceleration, braking and carburetor adjustment. Others are teen-agers, Hollywood starlets, husband-wife and mother-daughter teams.

Thirty women are making this year's trip, 13 as drivers and the others as observers or co-drivers. Each car carries a judge.

They are scheduled to roll into a Wichita service station at one-minute intervals. Drivers have their choice of regular or premium fuel. Their cars will be impounded while they spend the night in a hotel. They head out for St. Louis Thursday.

The U.S. Automobile Club runs the test. Once an automobile maker enters, USAC officials pick the cars at random and see they conform to production line specifications. Special fuel tanks and metering systems are used. The drivers must average more than 51 miles an hour. They do not know the exact route until just before the start of each day's drive.

When they pulled into Albuquerque, N.M., Tuesday night at the end of their second day, Les Viland was in the No. 1 spot by averaging 24.39 miles a gallon in a Rambler American. He is a nine-time winner in the class for compact sixes.

Marta Retzlaff of Barstow, Calif., was first in Class G, driving a Buick Le Sabre. Pat Swayer, a woman horse trainer from Hemet, Calif., was first in Class E, driving a Chevrolet Biscayne.

Bob Checkley was ahead in Class B, averaging 21.98 miles a gallon in a Dodge Dart. Bob Binder led Class C at 24.15 in a Plymouth Belvedere.

The cars are ranged in classes according to number of cylinders, horsepower, compression, displacement, axle ratio and wheelbase.

Armstrongs Learn to Live With Adventure

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The parents of Gemini 8 astronaut Neil A. Armstrong are taking their son's historic mission in stride because "we've learned to live with this sort of thing."

Gray-haired Stephen K. Armstrong, Neil's father, looks at it this way:

"After all," he said, "Neil flew 78 combat missions, was in the X15 program and was with Dyna-Soar."

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen K. Armstrong planned to be about a mile from the launch pad when their son, along with astronaut David R. Scott, ride aloft to try to achieve the first link-up with another satellite in space.

Scott's parents, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Tom W. Scott, planned to stay at their La Jolla, Calif., home during the flight. Scott's wife, Ann, and sons Tracy, who will be 5 years old March 25, and Douglas, 2, expected to be at their Houston, Tex., home during the blastoff.

Neil's wife, Janet, and sons Eric, 8, and Mark, 2, planned to watch the launch on television at their home. While Neil circles the globe, Janet intends to "clean house."

Practical Dreamer Puts Ideas to Work for Money

By LARRY HALL
Associated Press Writer

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — When Lee C. Fine first came to Missouri as a young forester, he lived in a little Shannon County house where grass grew up through the warped green boards of the floor.

His wife used to cut if off with her scissors.

Those were dark depression days but Lee had a vision. He wanted to save the hills and the trees, the land and the streams so people could use and enjoy them.

Now he's doing it as state director of parks. This practical dreamer is putting his ideas to work—often at minimum cost to the state.

For example, severe floods recently ravaged Alley Spring, Big Spring and Round Spring state parks on the Jack's Fork and Current rivers.

Roads, bridges, fences, picnic and camping facilities were swept away in the torrent.

Fine put his persuasiveness to work and got help from the U. S. Forest Service, the State conservation Commission, the Highway Department and the Office of Economic Opportunity. With their help and the work of Park Department crews, all will be in useable condition for visitors this summer.

Inmates of the Fordland honor camp of the State Department of Corrections also are being used in beautification and cleanup work at Bennett Spring state park near Lebanon and at the new Pomme de Terre reservoir near Warsaw.

Fordland men also refinished much of the furniture in the lodges at the state trout parks —Bennett Spring, Montauk, and Roaring River. The furniture was hauled to Fordland in park department trucks.

Similarly, boys from the State Training School at Boonville work at Cuivre River state park near Troy. They live in the group camping facilities in the winter time and in an old CCC camp during the summer.

Soon another crew of 30 from the Boonville school will be working in development of the new Watkins Mill state park near Liberty, helping to build a group camp, roads and other facilities planned there.

A federal matching grant of $20,000 to get the work started was approved last week.

The Fordland men are paid $1 a day for their work. The Boonville boys get $15 a month.

Fine is enthusiastic about the project. He says it helps rehabilitate the men and boys and gives them a little stake to start on when they get back in society.

And best of all, "they're doing work that needs to be done and that we couldn't hire to get done because we have neither the funds nor the manpower.

"This program is allowing us to do many things that it would be impossible to do otherwise. A lot of it is hand labor and they'ev never made a machine yet that can pick up limbs and rocks."

Fine is negotiating now with officials of the Men's Training at Mark Twain state park near Paris, Mo.

Fine is negotiating now with officials of the Men's Training Center at Moberly to get men from there to do similar work at Mark Twain state park near Paris, Mo.

How do the local people feel about having prisoners working in their midst?

"Originally," Fine says, "we had some resistance in almost every area. But the people soon found the men caused no trouble and now they are welcomed.

"In fact, the men police themselves. They don't want any troublemakers to spoil things and they take care of their own problems."

The Fordland men have proved themselves in another way. They have volunteered as forest fire fighters and have done yeoman service in the West Plains and Lake Ozark fire protection districts as well as in neighboring communities.

Aside from these projects, Fine has a broad program of park development laid out for this summer.

With the explosive demand for more outdoor camping facilities, camping development will be emphasized at all the parks, including modern rest rooms and sewage facilities.

Seven park water and sewage contracts are in various stages now in order to meet State Health Division standards.

In addition, as many park roads as possible will be blacktopped this summer to cut down the dust problem and make things more pleasant.

One new road is being contracted for the Trail of Tears park in Cape Girardeau county at an estimated cost of $30,000. It will lead to a Mississippi River scenic overlook which Fine predicts will be one of the most beautiful views in Missouri.

In addition to the rapid development of the Watkins Mill area, Fine has summer work planned for Thousand Hills park near Kirksville.

There a new residence will be built or an assistant superintendent, the concession building will be enlarged and the swimming beach will be improved.

A new campground is in the works for Wappapello state park near Poplar Bluff. It will have its own water system, modern rest rooms and sewage system.

There is no end to plans for the future as more millions of Americans take to the great outdoors.

On the drawing boards is a master plan for a new state park at the Stockton reservoir, now being built on the Sac River.

Similarly, plans are under way for an extension of Mark Twin park on the new Clarence Cannon (formerly Joanna) reservoir on the Salt River.

Fine hopes to have overnight camping facilities available this summer at the new Graham Cave park on I70 in Montgomery County.

Overnight camps also are planned for the Hawn outdoor recreation area near Ste. Genevieve and the new St. Francois county park near Bonne Terre, with limited use this summer.

Here's a brief rundown on other developments that are in the beginning stages:

A new concession building at Wakonda park near LaGrange.

Development of a major park at the Rock Bridge Memorial park near Columbia, which will be the only one in mid-Missouri.

A new park at the home of Nathan Boone, son of the famous Dan'l Boone, near Springfield.

Continued dredging of Big Lake in Holt county, authorized by the 1965 legislature. Fine says the work is "progressing very well—in fact, better than we expected."

Almost doubling the size of Wallace state park near Cameron just off I35.

Rehabilitating two swimming pools at Knob Noster park near Warrensburg to met State Health Division standards.

More and more people are going outdoors and Fine wants to be ready with a park system that will help them enjoy the hills and the woos, the lakes and streams.

He is making those long ago dreams come true.

Completes Course

Mrs. Fran Riley, Knob Noster, local representative of the David Eisenstein Agency, 105 East Second Street, for Mutual of Omaha and United of Omaha, was awarded a Certificate of Proficiency for successful completion of an intensive course in life insurance underwriting.

Jumps Without Chute

CLYDE, N.Y. (AP) — State Trooper Jack B. Rose's plane was crashing so he decided to jump before it hit the ground. He landed without a scratch.

Without parachute, he leaped from the small plane Monday just before it slammed into a large tree in a field near Route 31, about three miles west of this Wayne County community.

Rose, 24, landed in a creek. He said he bailed out after the craft struck telephone cables as he was landing in a field.

Rose is assigned to the state police substation at nearby Newark.

In Ranks With Area Servicemen

Airman Apprentice Robert F. McDonald, USN, son of Mrs. Ann B. McDonald, 1012 East 16th, Sedalia, has completed the Aviation Mechanical Fundamentals School at the Naval Air Technical Training Center in Memphis, Tenn.

The four-week course introduces students to mathematics, physics and the principles of electricity. Subjects stressed include atmoic theory, static and dynamic electricity, magnetic theory and the construction of aircraft batteries.

This month-long course prepares Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard personnel for entrance into more advanced courses at the center.

Actually a lizard, the horned toad includes in its armor a spiny back and pin-pointed spikes on top of its head.

For All To See

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Patti Ann Boyle, 18, has rented a billboard to let her boyfriend know she's not yet ready for marriage.

Last week Ralph Julian, 19, rented a billboard saying, "Pattie I love you. Will you marry me?"

She answered with a question of her own. She rented the same billboard and put up her message: "Ralph: After I graduate from University of Delaware? Patti."

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

Section Two Sedalia, Mo. Wed., March 16, 1966

HEAD LINES—"Op" art is everywhere these days—it's even gone to milady's head in the form of "op" wigs featured by a New York stylist, Joyce Christopher. With the model at left, designed with today's go-go space-age clothes in mind, a girl can be blonde and brunette at the same time. The interesting—if that's the word—effect at right, according to the designer, gives the wearer a quick personality change.

Reflections of Impoverished India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The tired tip-tap of their hammers sounds through rock quarries. Their quick eyes flit watchfully over herds of cows. Their gay laughter blends with the roar of coastal surf.

These are the children of India, and in their faces is the story of this impoverished nation's cruel economic troubles and its hope of a better tomorrow.

Nowhere is the gulf between reality and dream as clearly portrayed as in young faces.

It is the children among India's 480 millions who show the pinch of malnourishment. Some have scab-covered legs and gummy eyes that betray rampant disease.

But in their laughter lies the hope.

In the state of Kerala, a 7-year-old girl sits under the blazing sun, chipping small rocks into smaller pieces.

Her future is 100 yards away, where old women chip big rocks into small rocks. Her brother's future is farther up the rock face, where men drill all day, shrouded in choking dust.

A child chips for eight hours like this and still doesn't earn enough to eat as humans should.

In the rock quarries, the young faces don't smile. The eyes don't twinkle. The run slows to a walk. There is no time for fun and games.

But farther north, along the Arabian Sea coast, not even the filth, disease and hunger of a backward fishing village can still the laughter.

Children are everywhere in India — on mother's hip, under her feet, crawling in the crude hut's doorway, scampering down the village paths.

No one knows for sure how many children are born in India every year. Best estimates are that the population increases 12 million annually.

Education Minister M. C. Chagla announced in Parliament recently that 50 million Indian children are in primary schools.

A fine accomplishment, he said — except that many millions more never have seen the inside of a classroom and never will.

Despite all-out efforts to feed, clothe and educate, the Indian government is falling behind the population growth.

There are more illiterates over the age of 10 in India today than there were a decade ago. American experts put the number at 260 million and say the ranks of the unread are increasing by 4 million annually.

International relief organizations, plus foreign governments are trying to help India give these children a better start in life.

But this summer, when a developing food crisis seems destined to reach a new, cruel height, it will be a narrow thing for many of the children of India.

Driving From the Back Seat

A year ago the question was whether the economy could continue its steady rate of expansion.

Today we wonder if it has not begun to accelerate too rapidly and be heading out of control.

If it were merely a question of physics—say, driving a car—the solution would be to apply in reverse the same force that caused the initial acceleration. Fortunately, in a car a little gadget called a speedometer is a big help in determining when fast becomes too fast.

When it comes to economics, though, there is not just one speedometer but a whole panelful of them, and each one gives a different reading. Nor have we yet reached a point of familiarity with this particular engine and its various fuels to know with absolute certainty just what caused it to rev up in the first place and just what actions will simmer it down but not stall it entirely.

We are, in other words, flying by the seat of our pants.

According to the dials President Johnson reads, we are still on the safe side of the red line. Others think it's time we began stepping on the brakes, or at least moved our foot in that direction.

Unemployment has reached its lowest level since the Korean War. Productivity, new plant investment and personal income are at new highs. But at the same time there are, as the doctors would say, contraindications to this picture of glowing health.

The rich areas of the country get richer, but depressed areas like Appalachia remain with us. The jobless rate for Negroes—7 per cent—is nearly double the national average. The rate for teen-agers—10.9 per cent—is nearly triple. These factors all constitute a definitely depressing effect on the economy.

Looking at other figures, however, the rate of new plant investment is a fourth higher than had been anticipated for 1966, leading many to worry that we are entering a classic phase of inflation — manufacturers scrambling to produce goods for a public which is spending as though there were no tomorrow.

The debate over which speedometer is giving the truest indication of our current economic pace is beginning to rival the debate over the pace of the war in Viet Nam. That sorry business, itself, is playing no small inflationary role.

In both cases, we will probably know by the end of 1966 which gauges we should have kept our eyes on.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Miss Zepora Wasserman, Smith-Cotton High school senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wasserman, won the state championship in the dramatic declamation contest held at Canton, Mo., under sponsorship of the Missouri Forensic League. She also won third place in the humorous declamation contest. She will represent Missouri in the National speech tournament in Lexington, Ky., in May.

FORTY YEARS AGO

D. E. Elliott, chairman of the street and alley committee of the city council, Glenn Kell and Clay Harned, alderman, and Clarence Manker, city engineer, left for an automobile trip to Springfield, Fort Scott, Kan., and Kansas City where they will inspect street sweepers and flushers of various makes.

—1926—

James N. Wilkerson, real estate promoter, was nominated the Democratic candidate for mayor by delegates at the city convention. Others nominated were: For city attorney, Lawrence Barnett; Collector, Lon V. Ware; Assessor, H. L. Goode; Treasurer, Mrs. Beulah Bailey Hunter; Police Judge, O. E. Parsons; Marshal, W. T. Jackson; School Board, W. W. Barrett and Dr. F. B. Long; Chairman City Committee, R. A. Higdon. Alderman nominated at ward meetings: First, Al Clark; Second, Jack Raeber; Third, John F. Arnst; Fourth, W. H. Brownheller.

—1926—

A movement is underway, which if carried through successfully, will mean erection of a modern building on the Ritter property on the northwest corner of Third street and Osage avenue. This would make that corner one of the busiest in the city as well as one of the most attractive. It will be used for an automobile garage and shops. It will be L-shaped around the Sinclair oil station.

OTTAWA JOURNAL: Water from Sand.—The Canadian Forces' Sentinel magazine reports a U.S. device for producing water from hot desert sands with a sheet of clear plastic and a tin can. The can is placed at the bottom of a hole in the sand. The hole is covered with the plastic, the center of which is pushed down to form a cone aimed at the can. As air under the plastic becomes hot, moisture from the sand evaporates and condenses on the underside of the plastic, running down into the container.

The claim is made that up to three pints of water a day can be produced, enough to save life in a survival situation. Not all marvels of the age involve great machines, at[illegible] power, space and computers!

Britisher Tells How to Outsmart Reds

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Some private advice on how to outsmart and outsit the Communist world was given to Americans the other day by Sir Humphrey Trevelyan, long-time British ambassador in Moscow.

"Now that I am no longer her majesty's ambassador in Moscow," said Sir Humphrey, "I can tell you I told every British businessman who came to Moscow, 'go out and get Russian business. Eventually the Americans will wake up to this gold. But until they do, you might as well get it and help our balance of trade.' "

As to the best method of dealing with the Communist world, Ambassador Trevelyan said: "What you Americans don't realize is that the more you criticize or oppose the Communists, the more you help them. It keeps them together.

"The Communists are the most argumentative people in the world. They are always disagreeing with each other. Given a chance, they'll cut each other's throats. You finally realized this in East Europe, and you let them alone. As a result the Czechs, the Poles, the Bulgars and the Hungarians, who never did like the Russians, are beginning to be more independent.

"In Asia you haven't wakened up at all," said the man who guided British policy for Russia. "If you let the Vietnamese alone, they would oppose China on their own. What you're doing is driving them into the hands of China. You have to remember that Ho Chi Minh is the George Washington of Southeast Asia. He is highly respected, both in North and South Vietnam. You failed to cash in on it by ostracizing Ho Chi Minh during the early phases of the war. Now it's too late to use him."

Cavalry and Helicopters

Rep Charles R. Jonas, R-N.C., listened for two hours to Defense Secretary Robert McNamara on military problems in Viet Nam at a meeting of the House appropriations committee. Finally he said:

"I have not been to Viet Nam. I did my military service on a horse and got out when they dismounted the cavalry. The main conclusion I draw from what I have heard here is that if we were fighting the Indian war, with this modern, mechanized, sophisticated system, we would have lost it."

"You are talking about the Indian war such as we fought in the 1870's and 1880's?" inquired Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

"Yes," replied the congressman from North Carolina.

"I think we would have had a high degree of success fighting an Indian war, particularly one that took place in the west, against the Sioux and the other mounted Indian warriors," said Gen. Wheeler, "because horses do not like helicopters. We would have had a tremendous advantage there."

U.S Propaganda

The U.S. Information Agency has made very effective use of radio propaganda in South Viet Nam.

It discovered that most Viet Cong recruits were signed up with the pledge that they would fight only in their own villages, would not be shipped to strange territory. It was also agreed that if anything happened to them, they would be buried at home. Home burial is a sacred tradition of the Vietnamese family.

So when Viet Cong are picked up, USIA broadcasts the names of their villages and the number of miles they were fighting away from home. And the countryside is reminded that the dead men are being buried a long way from home.

No LBJ Snub

Inside the Supreme Court—Chief Justice Earl Warren, normally the mildest of men, was indignant over society-page reports that he and Vice President Humphrey were snubbed by President Johnson at a White House party in their honor. . . . The president went out of his way to invite all the Humphrey children and the two Warren children living in the east to the affair, then spent 45 minutes talking with the Humphrey-Warren families before and after dinner. . . . Mrs. Cora Clarkson, just back from visiting the Charles Englehard gold mines in South Africa, asked the chief justice: "Did you ever know a girl prettier than Jane Englehard?" quick as a flash, Warren replied: "Yes, I married one."

Red China: New Reactionary Force

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Red Chinese leadership, old now and inflexibly set in its ways, makes noises like a revolutionary force but has become a reactionary one. It has happened before in this century.

In the Soviet Union, Stalin, once he took charge, became a reactionary, murderous force, as his successors admitted later. The Russian people may have improved a bit economically under him but freedom became a joke and terror a way of life.

Because he remained inflexible in his hostility and ambitions, the Western world had its containment policy which held him tight.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., figures the average age of the present Chinese leaders is 68. Together in the 1920s and 1930s they dreamed of their revolution and takeover and made both a reality in 1949.

They made a true revolution in their homeland and for millions of their poor and hungry countrymen it was probably good. But, like Stalin, they gradually became a menace to the world, and certainly to all of Asia.

It is possible their successors, like Stalin's, may be more reasonable and modern and that the whole world then can enter a more peaceful era.

But it is hard to see any such change, so long as the present leadership survives, despite any hopes of American Chinese scholars or the Johnson administration.

And outside its borders this leadership has been inept. In its zeal to spread communism outside China it has made one mess after another. It can't even get along with other Communist states, much less Western ones.

It split with the Soviet Union, split with and antagonized Fidel Castro's Cuba.

In recent years Indonesia looked lost to communism under President Sukarno. But last fall when the Indonesian Reds tried revolt, the army crushed them and, reportedly, slaughtered thousands. Now the army has stripped Sukarno of much of his power.

The recent overthrow of Ghana's Kwame Nkrumah was considered here a reverse for Red China. The Communist-backed war in Viet Nam resulted in a massive American military buildup in Southeast Asia.

Still thinking of a Communist take-over of the world, the Communist ideal of 30 or 40 years ago, Red Chinese leadership through its defense minister, Marshal Lin, last September talked of strangling the world's advanced countries from bases in undeveloped countries.

Last week two American Chinese scholars urged, before the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, that while the United States should continue to "contain" China to prevent aggression, it should begin to try for friendly relations with it.

And Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, over the past weekend, indicated what may be a new Johnson administration policy toward Red China.

While China must be contained, he said, "we must take every opportunity to show our friendship for the Chinese people" who should not be isolated from the "family of mankind."

The Red Chinese leaders gave a quick and predictable reaction, predictable because they never seem capable of anything but the same old frozen reaction, by calling Humphrey's remarks "a kiss of Judas" that must "disgust the Chinese people."

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The late Albert Einstein ranks with Isaac Newton as "one of the two greatest physicists of all time," says a Nobel Prize-winning scientist.

Physicist C.N. Yang spoke at a ceremony marking the release of a U.S. postage stamp honoring Einstein.

Q's and A's On Tax Matters

Q — I just filed my return. How long will it take to get my refund?

A — It usually takes about six weeks to process a refund return that is properly made out. A refund may take longer than that if the return is filed just before the April 15 deadline.

Q — Tax is withheld from my paycheck but I still end up owing money when I file my return. Is there anything I can do about this?

A — One way to increase your withholding is to drop some of your exemptions for payroll purposes. You can always claim all the exemptions you are entitled to when you file your tax return. If this is not enough, you can ask your employer to withhold additional amounts from your paycheck.

Q — I just sold my home. What should we include when working out the cost basis and the sales price?

A — The cost of the house to you would be the initial purchase price plus the cost of permanent improvements you have made, purchase commissions, title fees and the like less any deferred gain on a home previously sold. From your selling price you can deduct selling commissions, advertising fees and similar costs incurred in transferring the property.

Form 2119, "Statement Concerning Sale or Exchange of Personal Residence," will be of great help to you in calculating any tax liability. Write your District Director for a copy. Also, ask for a copy of Document No. 5017 — "Selling Your Home."

Q — When you add up medical expenses, can you include premiums paid for hospital insurance?

A — Yes you can. Remember to reduce your actual medical expenses by any reimbursement you receive from this insurance.

Q — On a joint return, can I exclude $200 in dividends from taxable income?

A — The exclusion is $200 only where the husband receives $100 or more in dividends and the wife receives $100 or more in dividends. On joint returns, each taxpayer may exclude up to $100 in dividends received on stock he and she owns either jointly or individually.

If all the dividends are received by either the husband or wife, then the dividend exclusion is $100 even on a joint return.

IQ Difficult to Raise

By Susan Light
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LIGHT: Our third-grade son is in the average IQ range according to what his teacher tells us. He is doing "C" work in school, which she says is about par for his course. He is an only child, and we want to give him the best in education, including a top-ranking college. Do you know of anything we can do to raise his IQ? We've heard that a child's IQ can be improved by several points.—AMBITIOUS PARENTS

ANSWER: I'm sorry to be discouraging, but I'm afraid you're too late. Research indicates that a child's IQ can be changed very little by external factors after he is 8 years old.

From birth to 4, IQ can be brought up 10 points by a stimulating environment. From 4 to 8, another six points can be added. From 8 until he stops growing, however, a child is not likely to become much brighter. Four more points is about all that can be hoped for, even under the most favorable circumstances.

But why be overly concerned about your son's IQ? There's a lot more to successful living than superior intelligence. Enthusiasm, hard work, attractive personality and the will to learn may carry him further in school — and the world — than his teacher believes possible at this point.

Think of the thousands of severely handicapped children wh will never be able to attend regular classes in school. Then be happy and thankful that yours is "average."

DEAR MRS. LIGHT: My little girl continually comes home from school with skinned knees, buttons missing from her coat, and holes in her leotards. She claims the boys chase her and knock her down. When she complains to the playground director, he says, "Isn't that nice!" Should I call the principal? — JANE'S MOTHER

ANSWER: No. Talk to your daughter instead. As I tell complaining moppets, "No boy chases a girl who doesn't want to be chased." Getting a rise out of mother is half the fun of the game.

A zippered coat and sturdy slacks might be a good investment.

Trick One Is Spot to Think

By JACOBY & SON
1965 Vanderbilt Cup Winners
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Oswald shows Jim the North and South cards and asks, "How do you plan your play at six spades after West opens the queen of hearts?"

Jim: "You've really given me a tough one. I have possible plays in every suit but clubs. I start by thinking along the lines of the code word Arch. Analysis of the lead indicates that it is probably a four or five card heart suit since he would not lead a shorter suit after hearts have been rebid, so my first step is to abandon the idea of trying to break the hearts 3-3 to set up a diamond discard. Review of the bidding tells me nothing. The opponents did not bid. Count of the losers shows one possible loser in diamonds and two possible losers in trumps. If I have to lose a diamond I must play the trumps for no losers which means taking a trump finesse and finding two trumps in each hand. If I don't have to lose a diamond I can afford one trump loser which means that the correct play will be to play my ace of hearts to see if I can drop the singleton king. If I don't drop the singleton king I go back to dummy and lead toward my queen. After all this preliminary thought I decide that the best play will be to test the diamonds first. I come to my hand with a club and try the diamond finesse. Does it work?"

Oswald: "Yes."

Jim: "Then I lead a trump to my ace."

Oswald: "You drop the singleton king and the rest is just picking up the marbles."

Jim: "It sure goes to show the value of studying the whole play at trick one."

Letter To The Editor

MRS. LOUISE W. RAMSEY—(300 South Vermont Ave.): Our population will nearly double by the year 2000, as attested by our social scientists. Problems of increased food, jobs, recreation and education are among the many with which we must concern ourselves.

On April 5, the citizens of all the school districts of Pettis County and the majority of school districts in Benton County will vote on the question of establishing an area junior college. We need to consider such a proposal in the light of our future needs. This demands imagination, intelligence, courage, far-sightedness and faith.

The job of education is to help orient the student, to develop his natural gifts, to inspire the student to his fullest potential and to think for himself. Let no talent, no skill, no ability be ignored. This is what a junior college can do and must do.

Some other aspects we must take into consideration and not overlook are: the reduced cost that is available to the student who lives at or near home, the attractiveness of a closer association between faculty and student, and the choice of the student for the academic and social setting in which he is most comfortable.

Education is what American people have made it or failed to make it. I believe that each of us should have a sense of responsibility to create a world of the future and to enrich the lives of others.

It is with these strong and deep convictions that I have filed as a candidate for a member of the board of trustees for the proposed junior college of this area.

Keel for Nashville

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) —The keel has been laid for the Nashville, the fifth of seven high-speed amphibious assault transports being built for the Navy.

The Lockheed Shipbuilding & Construction Co. said the 16,500-ton, 570-foot ships can carry 1,000 troops and their equipment, including tanks and helicopters.

Nun Cannot Appear In Campus Play

DETROIT (AP) — The University of Detroit says the Vatican has declined permission for Sister Marie Bernadette to appear in a campus theater production.

Sister Bernadotte, 23, a nun majoring in drama, previously had received permission from the Most Rev. John F. Dearden, archbishop of Detroit.

The university, a Jesuit school, said Sister Bernadette had been informed of the Vatican decision in a message from Ildebrando Cardinal Antoniutti, head of the Congregation for the Religious of the Catholic Church, Monday.

A news release from the university said the message "superseded previously granted permission on a local level." It gave no further details.

Sister Bernadette — Barbara Kuess before joining the Home Mission Sisters (Glenmary Sisters) in 1960 — was to have played the role of Beatrice in the University of Detroit Theatre production of Carlo Goldoni's "A Servant of Two Masters," stylized comedy of a past century. The play opens Friday night.

The role calls for its actress to masquerade as a man and wear the foppish lace and silk costume of an 18th century gentleman. She and her stage lover do not meet until the last act when they briefly embrace.

McNeil Is Appointed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — L. Clark McNeil of Salem was appointed Monday to a new term on the board of advisers for the Missouri School for the Blind in St. Louis.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes made the appointment.

Altrusa-Rotary Meet Together

Altrusa and Rotary Clubs combined luncheon meetings March 7 at Bothwell Hotel to hear Miss Libby Mackie of Rhodesia. She was introduced by William C. Hopkins. Miss Mackie, foreign exchange student, guest resident of the Hopkins family, spoke about her native land and showed slides.

Carl Yates was program chairman. The meeting was arranged by Mrs. Imogene Peoples of Altrusa and Rotary President Fred Crnic.

Altrusas endorsed the proposed junior college after hearing related talks by Mrs. David Curry and Mrs. Jim Schmidt of Sedalia Jaycee Wives Club. Members agreed to serve on telephone committees reminding citizens to vote on the issue.

Mrs. Mable Chambers, Altrusa president, and Mrs. Lucille White were appointed delegates to District 8 conference of Altrusa in Pittsburg, Kan., April 22.

Special guest of Miss Opal O'Briant was Miss Geraldine Reuchen, 4-H Youth agent in training at the University of Missouri Extension Center in Sedalia.

Univer's Size Cut By Goddard

NEW YORK (AP) — Just 40 years ago Dr. Robert H. Goddard launched the world's first liquid-fueled rocket — and showed mankind the way to interplanetary space.

The flimsy little forerunner of the huge rocket systems of the 1960s leaped upward from a field near Auburn, Mass., March 16, 1926, in a flight lasting only 2½ seconds.

It reached an altitude of 41 feet and landed 184 feet away from its primitive launching pad in a jumble of twisted and broken tubing.

Unnoticed by the world at large, a frail, 43-year-old professor of physics at Clark University, Worcester, Mass., had ushered in the space age.

Recalling the pioneer flight in a commemorative stamp ceremony at Clark in 1964, John A. Gronouski, then postmaster general, said:

"The Wright brothers reduced the size of the world; Dr. Goddard reduced the size of the universe."

Pre-Goddard rockets were inefficiently propelled by gunpowder and other dry explosives with an uncontrollable burning rate and brief period of thrust.

Dr. Goddard had concluded that liquid fuel would give far better results.

In July, 1914, he had obtained U. S. Patent No. 1,103,503 on a rocket design embodying all the basic features of the giants built today, including the concept of multiple stages.

He had been experimenting with rockets for 18 years — and was recognized world expert in the field — when he was finally ready to demonstrate that liquid fuel would work.

Dr. Goddard's prototype, put together in a Clark University workshop, consisted of a two-foot motor linked by fragile tubing to a pair of 2½-foot tanks. One tank contained liquid oxygen, the other gasoline. Empty of fuel, the rocket assembly weighed less than five pounds.

Mounted in a makeshift metal frame which looked like part of a modern piece of playground equipment, the whole thing stood only 10 feet tall.

The launching site was a field on Miss Effie Ward's farm. She was a distant relative of Dr. Goddard and he called her "Aunt Effie."

With Dr. Goddard were his machinist helper Henry Sachs, Dr. P.M. Roope, assistant professor of physics at Clark, and Mrs. Goddard. She carried a movie camera.

At 2:30 p.m. Dr. Goddard primed the rocket and touched it off.

There was a sharp pop as the fuel ignited.

The rocket rose slowly until it cleared the supporting frame, then zipped into the air, curved to one side and plummeted to earth as part of the motor's nozzle burned off.

Dr. Goddard calculated the average speed from takeoff to landing at 60 miles an hour.

In the excitement, Mrs. Goddard's hand-wound movie camera had run down and the historic flight went unphotographed.

Largest Private Gift Goes To University

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — The University of Massachusetts has received a $400,000 scholarship fund, the largest single private gift in the state university's history.

The fund was bequeathed by the late George M. Codding of Darien, Conn., a 1909 graduate, and former executive vice president of Bartlett Tree Experts, Inc. He died in Darien Sept. 23, 1964.

Brazil outlawed the Communist party in 1947.

Libel Suit Against KC 'Star' Dismissed

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Circuit Judge James A. Moore has dismissed a $150,000 libel suit against the Kansas City Star.

Charles C. Shafer Jr., former city councilman, filed the suit against the newspaper, alleging he was libeled by five articles printed in the Star in July, 1960.

Judge Moore ruled that there was no actual malice in the articles, that the words themselves were not libelous, and that the stories were within the privilege guaranteed by the constitution for the debate of public issues.

SPCA STAMP—A commemorative five-cent stamp marking the 100th anniversary of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will be issued April 9 with ceremonies in New York City, where the society was founded. The black, white and terra cotta stamp features the four-year-old mongrel dog, named Babe, of the artist, Norman Todhunter.

Arrow Rock Lyceum Board In Annual Meet

The Board of Directors of The Arrow Rock Lyceum, the repertory summer theatre operating in Arrow Rock, Mo., held its annual Spring meeting Sunday, March 6 at The Old Tavern in Arrow Rock.

This Board, composed of distinguished citizens representing a wide geographic area met to plan promotion and support for the Lyceum's sixth season and to open the Advance Ticket sales campaign. Dr. John R. Lawrence, president, presided. Mr. and Mrs. Mode Anson of Marshall, are Chairmen of advance ticket sales. These tickets, available only until the first performance of the season (July 2) represent a saving of 35 per cent over the single admission price. They may be purchased from any member of the Lyceum Board or by writing the theatre in Arrow Rock.

The Lyceum's sixth season will open Saturday, July 2, with Moliere's satiric farce, "The Miser." "The Rainmaker," a romantic comedy by N. Richard Nash will open with the Sunday Matinee performance July 3. "The Skin of Our Teeth", Thornton Wilder's zany epic comedy opens July 9; Chekhov's compassionate drama "Uncle Vanya" will be added to the repertory July 23, and Shakespeare's blustering domestic farce of Sir John Falstaff dear hunting, "The Merry Wives of Windsor" will open July 29, completing repertoire. As each play is opened it's performed in repetory with others. with a change of play for each performance.

Performance schedules and other theatre and Arrow Rock information will be sent if requested from the Lyceum in Arrow Rock. The Lyceum operates with an experienced resident acting company, and the theatre's director, Henry Swanson has announced that this season's company will include many actors from previous Lyceum companies. The Board of Directors for the Lyceum, a non-profit corporation is enthusiastic about the prospects for the theatre's sixth season.

The self-service or do-it-yourself laundry dates back at least to 1832, the year a woman in London, England, set up a laundry consisting of a wash boiler, mangle, etc., and charged a penny for the use of the equipment. A larger community self-service laundry was established in Liverpool in 1842. Establishments of this type soon appeared in the United States and Europe.

From Ship To Warehouse

Farm Wonders Harnessed To Transportation System

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Completing a journey half way around the world, an American freighter tied up at Alexandria Dock in Bombay with thousands of tons of golden Midwestern wheat to feed India's hungry millions.

Long black suction tubes bearing the handclasp sign of the U.S. aid program snaked down into the ship's holds. Engines made in Wisconsin started with a roar and the grain began pouring into a dockside warehouse.

It was an example of 20th Century America delivering the goods — harnessing the scientific wonder of its farms to the world's best transportation system in a campaign against famine in India.

At the discharge end of the suction tubes, the fast-moving 20th Century ran smack into the 18th Century, faltered, slowed an all but stopped.

On the receiving end were Indian longshoremen wielding tin pans and burlap bags. They stooped, laboriously scooped, bagged and weighed the grain.

Then, as their forefathers did centuries ago, the longshoremen hoisted 200-pound bags onto their heads and trotted outside.

The grain was en route to villages in the interior — by rickety truck, train, oxcart and riverboat. It often takes longer than the 30-day voyage from U.S. ports to dockside in India.

Rail shipment is limited. Lightweight rails prevent maximum loading of available freight cars or fast movement of trains.

At Phalodi, an oasis city at the end of the northern railway line in the Indian desert in Rajasthan State, six freight cars brought some 400 tons of American wheat which had been unloaded at the Gulf of Kutch 450 miles south.

The cars spent one day on the siding. When unloading started it took two days for barefoot laborers to haul the bags of wheat onto the platform. Crows flew down and thrust their beaks into the bags, gobbling grain.

On the fourth morning, two-wheel carts pulled by pairs of Brahma bulls lined up and the bags were loaded, nine bags to a cart. Then they were carted about four blocks to a lease warehouse — that lacked poisons, traps or other rodent preventives.

Each time the bags were moved, grain seeped from the seams, and one or two split open.

No provisision had been made for distributing the wheat, although the Phalodi area was described as the most seriously affected of the state's hunger areas.

Government officials said they were at work organizing a half dozen or so ration shops in the outlying villages. First they had to find a merchant in each village who would agree to handle the wheat, sell it at the prescribed rate and settle for the decreed profit.

Once the shops were established the grain would move by truck or jeep — or perhaps carried on camel back — across the sand dunes to villages.

This spectacle, repeated all over India, has brought home to American officials a startling fact: It is not enough to grow wheat and deliver it to India. If widespread hunger is to be averted, American techniques also must be applied to moving the people.

In normal times, American grain arrived at dockside in India at the rate of 600,000 tons monthly. Emergency shipments last year hit about 850,000 tons in one month and strained India's internal distribution facilities to the limit.

Now, with President Johnson ordering stepped-up shipments, American officials hope to move as much as 1.2 million tons through the ports monthly, beginning in April.

Feature Film Project Next For Batman

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Next for Batman is a caper of his own. He'll try to remove millions of dollars from the moviegoers of America.

Will theater patrons pay to see what they get free twice-weekly on their home screens? William Dozier thinks so, and he is backed by the corporative judgment of 20th Century-Fox.

Dozier is more or less the father of television's "Batman," having masterminded the advent of the super-camp, caped crusader. The veteran producer confidently predicts Batman will prove successful as a feature film.

"When these things are hot, they are hot in many areas," he reasoned.

So he is proceeding with deliberate speed to produce a wide-screen feature. Lorenzo Semple, who created the original television segments, is writing the script. The television series will end April 6 and production on the feature will begin April 18.

"We'll finish May 20 and begin next year's series on June 13; that will give the actors time to catch their Batbreaths," reported Dozier.

"How do they like the schedule? I've found it to be true that actors like money, especially actors who haven't seen much of it. Certainly Adam West was not exactly earning much before, and Burt Ward, who plays Robin, never made any money from acting."

What is Dozier giving the customers that they can't get on television?

"We'll also give the customers four villains in the film: the Penguin (Burgess Meredith), the Joker (Cesar Romero), the Riddler (Frank Gorshin) and the Cat Woman (Julie Newmar), who will be seen this week on the show."

Dozier is planning ahead for the next television season, during which he expects the show to maintain its batrating.

"We'll have even more fun with the guest stars," said the producer. "An amazing number of really classic actors have volunteered for roles. I'm talking about stars like Maurice Evans, Robert Morley, James Mason, Bette Davis, Gloria Swanson, Raymond Massey, Cyril Ritchard.

Accidents Shadow TV Movie Star

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Carol Burnett, who isn't particularly superstitious, goes around with crossed fingers these days.

Two seasons ago Carol was signed as one of the stars in a CBS series called "The Entertainers," and her name twinkled on a Broadway marquee as the star of a musical, "Fade Out — Fade In."

Carol soon was hospitalized, in traction, with an injured spinal disc. The television show ground to a slow, sad end without her; "Fade Out — Fade In" shuttered.

Last spring, fully recovered and ready to take up her career again, Carol was playing softball with typical Burnett abandon. Somehow, she managed to fracture her ankle in five places. That put her into a cast for two months and induced a limp for much longer.

She doesn't really believe that bad luck comes in threes — but she's being a little careful. Meanwhile "Carol Plus Two," the fifth special under her million-dollar, 10-year pact with CBS, is now on tape and, short of a national emergency, will be seen on Tuesday, March 22.

The "Plus Two" part of the title are Zero Mostel and Lucille Ball, who hardly need an introduction. Mostel, a darling of Broadway audiences and most recently star of "Fiddler on the Roof," was signed early in the planning for the special. Not so the second costar.

As Carol recalls it: "They were discussing all sorts of important people and knocking out this one and that one — he was too hard to get; she was too busy; he'd never do it, and so on.

"I didn't say anything, but I really wanted Lucille to do it. So that night I just called her up and asked her. She said she'd love to work with me, we checked on her availabilities and that was that. The next day at the meeting I said I'd like Lucille —and they looked at me as if I were a nut and explained all the reasons they couldn't get her. I just asked them to try — and of course, it worked. I admire her so much that working with her was a real thrill for me."

Carol, although a naturalized New Yorker now, thinks of Los Angeles as home. She was born in San Antonio, Tex., but grew up in Hollywood and went to high school and college — UCLA — there.

Stars rarely are born overnight in television, but Carol was. Nine years ago she sang, "I Made a Fool of Myself Over John Foster Dulles" on the Jack Paar show. Paar had her back to repeat the number and even Dulles let on that he enjoyed it. The song was funny, Carol was appealing and she was off on the star track like a sprinter.

Esh Sham (formerly called Damascus), capital of Syria, is reputed to be the world's oldest continuously inhabited city.

A national debt of $10,000,000 was incurred under the Articles of Confederation.

Rebels Rule The Famed Sunset Strip

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The beat of the street is go-go and laroooom.

Oh, a svelte star and a handsomer than handsome leading man may appear on it, before ducking into LaRue's and then heading off to the Daisy — membership: $250 — in swankier-than-swank Beverly Hills. But the habitues, the swingers and cats and hip, the ones who give the strip its character these rock 'n' roll, folk-rock nights, are the boys in stem trousers, narrow lapels, unshorn hair, and the girls in straight hair, white lipstick and the meanest Watusi ooomph in the U.S. of A.

Sunset Strip, is in the sunset of its age of great stars, expensive ladies of the night, $100 dinners, grand wines, Rolls-Royces and Bentleys, women glittering with real diamonds, men whose profiles aroused heart flutters in hamlets throughout the world . . . all . . . all have almost vanished.

For now the sound of the street is the throaty roar of motorcycles. They throb along the 12-block band that stretches between Beverly Hills — where the big timers built their castles — and Los Angeles — where the extras and grips and laborers of moviedom huddled in hogans and dreamed the dreams of traveling the dozen blocks to supersuccess.

Now the rebels are in the rule; the outcasts have a roost; the nonconformists and wanderers have a haven — and the squares come to gawk just as they came — hopefully — to rubberneck the doings of Barrymore and Monroe and Lombard and Gable and Sinatra — even if those stars rarely appeared on the strip. The idea was they might.

There are fabulous spots and fabulous personalties. The Garden of Allah, built by Nazimova, featured a swimming pool in the shape of the Black Sea, and attracted such residents as F. Scott Fitzgerald, Robert Benchley, Dorothy Parker, Errol Flynn and Humphrey Bogart, who were far-out for their time.

It — the Strip — was a place for the notorious, too. The tourists could almost count on seeing gangster Mickey Cohen and his cohorts and doxies. Tempers and passions and egos produced some one-punch encounters that ere worthy of Oscars for improvisational acting. But there was a real problem, too. The air of money brought forth men who would and could provide anything that other men, however decadent or debased, desired.

The kooks and teen-agers and just-turned-21's who now reign in the forest of coffee shops and cheap-enough restaurant hangouts, have changed the nature of the strip's crime: these days it's vandalism and malicious mischief and curfew violation.

What will the Strip be tomorrow?

No one can forecast.

It once was a Strip where it never seemed — to those who had made it — that there would ever be a sunset of their youth and good fortune.

Now? Now for these very young it is a place where sunset promises the protection of night and the thrill idea that the nights in Sunset are endless.

Festivities For 'Waltz' Birthday

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — It is hard to believe but when Johann Strauss composed the famed "Blue Danube Waltz" it was almost a flop.

It survived, of course, and next year, when the waltz will be 100 years old, the city of Vienna plans large-scale festivities.

But already one year ahead of the centennial, the Vienna Society of Music is staging an exhibit dedicated to the four waltz composers of the Strauss family.

The exhibit draws modest crowds. Viennese youngsters prefer modern dances. But a perfect ability to dance a left-turn waltz is still a condition if you want to take part in the opening dance of the annual Opera Ball.

Strauss composed the "Blue Danube" for a carnival ball of the Vienna Glee Club. The premiere was on Feb. 15, 1867.

The original text by Josef Weyl may have been the cause for the waltz' luke-warm reception. Twenty-three years later, in 1890, the waltz finally got its present text by Franz von Gernoth, featuring the "Blue Danube."

While nobody in Vienna ever recalls the Danube having been blue — it's gray-green at best — the new text was a marked improvement over the original version.

Here was the original text:

Viennese be happy (Wiener seid froh)

Oho, why so (Oho, wieso)

No, so, look around (No so blickt nur um)

I ask, why (I bitt' warum)

A glimmer of light (Ein schimmer des lichts)

We dont see anything yet (Wir sehen noch nichts).

The first-night audience didn't think much of that. The waltz was Johann Strauss' first song waltz. When it came out, the Austrians had just lost the War of 1866 against the Prussians and Strauss apparently wanted to cheer them up.

The members of the Vienna Glee Club were not happy at all over the waltz. They said, "We can't sing that, and besides it's not melodious."

But the club's president, Nicolaus Dumba, insisted on its presentation. When it was sung at the club ball, some critics called it a flop.

Shelepin May Be Red Boss In 70s

MOSCOW (AP) — A poll of Kremlin-watchers in Moscow today probably would choose Alexander N. Shelepin as the man most likely to be running the Soviet Union in the 1970s. They will be watching carefully this month for clues to support this judgment.

The 23rd Soviet Communist party congress opens March 29, and Shelepin is considered to be the man in charge of organizing this important meeting. The congress will provide an occasion to gauge Shelepin's role.

At the moment Shelepin is a member of the party's powerful secretariat and of the Central Committee's ruling Presidium. At 47 he is still young for the top command.

Shelepin's public image has varied with his official roles. He has pleaded for consideration for Soviet youth at times, and cracked down on youth at other times. He was mild at times when he was running the secret police, and at other times tough and vindictive.

Little things showing through his public utterances have created apprehension about Shelepin among some intellectual and youth groups. One foreign expert on the Soviet leadership calls him more dictatorially inclined than his colleagues. Yet a Soviet colleague who worked closely with him describes Shelepin as shy, even timid, a hard man to know.

Shelepin has seemed to seek anonymity. during infrequent public appearances he stood back and let others of equal or lesser rank win attention.

But recently Shelepin was thrust into the spotlight, on assignments like his January visit to North Viet Nam, which involved competition in Hanoi with Chinese influence as well as policy toward the United States.

The lights glisten on an extended forehead of approaching baldness and catches the shadows of thickening jowls. A small scar runs diagonally across a wide nose. The left eyebrow arches higher than the right, giving distinctive character to what otherwise might be an expressionless face.

Alexander Nikolayevich Shelepin was born Aug. 18, 1918, almost a year after the Bolshevik revolution. His official biography says he was the son of a railwayman in Voronezh, 300 miles southeast of Moscow.

At 18, Shelepin entered the Moscow Institute of History, Philosophy and literature, a school for young men marked for future leadership. The Stalin purges were on then, and Shelepin stepped into purge-created vacancies in the school's unit of the Communist party Youth League, in the Komsomol.

Three years later, in 1939, Shelepin was sent into the army as a political instructor and squad leader in the war against Finland. He served only briefly.

Some sources say Shelepin was a partisan leader behind Nazi lines in World War II, but the official biography indicates he remained in civilian party work.

He was enrolled as a full party member in 1940, finished at the institute in 1941 and became a Komsomol instructor in Moscow, rising to a secretary's job in the organization by 1943.

Shelepin became first secretary — chief — of the young Communist League in November 1952, at a time when Stalin — believed to be preparing a new purge — wanted reliable men in key spots. If a purge was in the offing, Stalin's death in 1953 interrupted the process.

To have a well-ripened flavor, Cheddar cheese should be aged from six to nine months at a temperature of approximately 50 degrees Fahrenheit. This hard cheese made from cows' milk originated several hundred years ago in Cheddar, Somerset, England. It was introduced into America by English settlers who produced it in the colonies long before revolutionary days.
